The Idea of a University

A university is not bricks and mortar, not solely bricks and mortar. It is flesh and bone, dreams and reality, promise and fulfillment. Its totality is too broad for canvas, too elusive for print. It has moods and ages, like a person. Its seasons are all growing seasons and the harvests ever secure.

A university is, above all, an experience. It exists in the hearts and minds of those who draw from its wisdom and add to its reputation.

A university is a place, yes, but a place of the spirit. It is described, forever after, by its family, not as architecture, but as personality and precept and conversion.

A university is what its alumni have become. They are its voice to the world.

Some alumni achieve headlines, bear titles, manage corporations, represent constituents, build, create, publicize, minister, protect, teach. Some labor less conspicuously, contributing from the depths of their talents, fostering understanding, transmitting appreciation.

They speak for us, our alumni. And they speak well.

... Robert T. Reilly, Professor Emeritus

A Proud Tradition

Founded in 1908 as the University of Omaha, the University of Nebraska at Omaha has evolved into a comprehensive public university that has received national and international recognition for some of its specialties. The University offers excellent academic programs, a lively intellectual and cultural atmosphere and a friendly campus.

The University of Nebraska at Omaha is a state-assisted university located in the heart of Nebraska's largest city. First established as a private nonsectarian college, the University's steady growth through the years eventually brought about its affiliation in the mid-1960s with the University of Nebraska. The merger created the University of Nebraska system, which includes the University of Nebraska at Omaha, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha.

One of the basic ideas for our University, one in which we take great pride, is a dedication to the liberal arts. We believe an educated person needs to learn to correlate, to see the relationships among concepts and phenomena, and to have an understanding of several academic disciplines. To bring about this process of intellectual integration, we require each student to take courses selected from the humanities, the social sciences and the natural sciences.

Another of our basic ideas is dedication to quality education of students. Since more than 80 percent of the faculty members here hold the highest degree in their field of study, many freshmen are taught by full professors and not teaching assistants, even in introductory-level courses.

Our faculty members bring a broad range of research expertise and public service commitment to their classrooms. "Real world" savvy is a strength of our faculty. Both faculty members and graduate students assist small business around the state through the Nebraska Business Development Center and other programs offered through the College of Business Administration. The University's Center for Public Affairs Research, a program of the College of Public Affairs and Community Service, coordinates the efforts of faculty and students who conduct original research on public affairs issues confronting the citizens of Nebraska. Similar opportunities exist in the arts, education, social work and other professions.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Identification of the hood and robe as academic apparel is believed to have originated at the English universities of Oxford and Cambridge during the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. The hoods are a carry-over from the times when monks, who operated these universities, wore them to protect their shaved heads in winter. The robe is an adaptation of the shoulder cape also worn by these same monks while collecting alms.

Use of the academic robe came to the United States in 1754 with the founding of what is now Columbia University. In 1895, a commission of University officials adopted a universal code of design and color for the academic garb. This code has undergone several revisions in subsequent years.

Styling of the robes varies for the bachelor's and master's degrees with the width of sleeve borders and length of the hood increasing with each advanced degree. Hoods are normally not used for bachelor's degrees today. Instead, the tassel colors are used to indicate the degree program.

UNIVERSITY HONORS PROGRAM

The University Honors Program is an all-University program which provides maximum educational opportunities for students of high ability through special multidisciplinary seminars and participation in an academic level not generally possible in usual auricular offerings.

The program is an outgrowth of the Arts and Sciences Honors program and was initiated in 1978. It is governed through the office of the Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs and administered through the Honors Coordinator. UNO colleges which implement honors programs include Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, Education, Fine Arts and Public Affairs and Community Service.

As part of their Honors Program requirements, students undertake a research project that results in a Senior Honors Thesis. Students and their theses topics are listed at the end of the list of graduates. Students who have been designated in this booklet as Honors Program students have fulfilled the academic requirements of this program.

Students receiving their baccalaureate degree with honors will be presented medallions in the colors designated.

THE CHANCELLOR'S MEDAL

The Chancellor's Medal of the University of Nebraska at Omaha was established to recognize the contributions of faculty and administrative staff which are a mixture of academic prowess, physical vigor, the ability to visualize social structure and an applied sense of humanity.

People are responsible for the growth of vitality of institutions. At the University of Nebraska at Omaha we are fortunate to have men and women who have accepted this charge. They have a belief in the University's destiny and this dedication has resulted in a kind of genius that merits special attention. The Chancellor's Medal is one means of recognizing these people. It is bestowed only to those within the University community who have demonstrated unusual excellence.

CHANCELLOR'S MEDAL RECIPIENT

TIMOTHY M. FITZGERALD

Timothy M. Fitzgerald, Manager of the News Bureau in University Relations, has been a member of the University community for more than twenty years. He came to the University in the summer of 1970 and has built a fine reputation as a skilled photographer, public relations practitioner and media specialist.

Fitzgerald has recorded almost all of UNO's visual history since it became part of the University of Nebraska system in 1968. As one colleague said, "His pictures will be around long after many currently familiar faces have moved on."

Fitzgerald has been described by members of the University community as creative, versatile, an invaluable asset, and possessing insight and energy.

He received UNO's Employee of the Month Award in 1978 and the Department of Communication's Annual Distinguished Service Award for service both to the department and University in 1984.

For his dedication and service, the University takes pride in recognizing the career of Timothy M. Fitzgerald with its highest honor, the Chancellor's Medal.

CHANCELLOR'S MEDAL RECIPIENT

JAMES P. VEIGA

All one has to do is look around the campus to see what James P. Veiga, Manager of UNO's Grounds and Environmental Services, has done.

Veiga, a member of the University community for more than 10 years, is known as one whose artistry, sense of aesthetic balance and fine workmanship have transformed UNO into a beautifully landscaped campus.

He has been described by his colleagues as someone who knows how to lead the ranks from within — not from behind a desk, and as one who inspires his people to work to the very best of their ability, producing exceptional results. One colleague said, "before Jim arrived at UNO our campus was not at all a thing of beauty. Now, it has become a great source of pride for all who work here."

Prior to working at UNO, Veiga was Supervisor of Environmental Services at the University of Nebraska Medical Center. Before that he served in the U.S. Air Force for twenty years.

For his commitment to beautifying the UNO campus, the University is proud to recognize James P. Veiga with its highest honor, the Chancellor's Medal.
