Welcome Back

And we’re off! The beginning of the new semester means the starting line for some, and the finish line for others. The rest of us are somewhere in the pack between!

Regardless of what place we find ourselves, we are all on the same team with the same final destination. To foster camaraderie, it is my hope to have this newsletter be a “meeting place” where all can come for support, whatever the need might be. Perhaps just some information, perhaps to meet faculty members or each other, ask some questions, or share your knowledge.

Tell me what you would like to see develop and I will do my best to make it possible!

New Features

Faculty Focus and Student Spotlight. Each month one faculty member and 2 graduate students will answer the same, in-depth, thought provoking, unbelievably profound, profile questions.

I wish I would’ve known that/I’d sure like to know. Share your hard won knowledge and ask for help from others that have “been there, done that”. Email Joyce at jskm84@mizzou.edu and watch for this section in next month’s letter.

PARTY!!!

All current and former Pasco-era library science students are invited to drinks and snacks at Dr. Pasco’s home.

6217 Tanglewood Circle
5:30 – 7:30 p.m.
September 29, 2005

It is the Thursday evening of the upcoming NLA/NEMA conference, but come whether or not you attend the conference! Grab this chance to relax with your friends, colleagues, and faculty members for awhile.

Faculty Focus

Dr. Pasco has graciously "volunteered" to be the first faculty focus.

Q: What is your education/library/professional background?

I’ve always worked in libraries of some sort since I was old enough to stamp a card. I worked in public libraries in southeast Nebraska when I was growing up, academic libraries when I was attending various colleges to help with tuition, and I directed school libraries during much of my K-12 tenure. I have a B.S. in Secondary Education, and an MLS and a PhD from Emporia State University in Kansas.

Q: What is on your reading list? What are your favorites/your recommended/your want to read lists?

I love forensic mysteries and read them, or I should say, listen to them, in droves (which means that yes, I also love to watch CSI). Some of my favorites authors of this genre are Patricia Cornwell, Kathy Reichs, Jeffrey Deaver and Iris Johannsen.

Q: What do you do in your “down time”? Your hobbies/recreation, how do you relax?

I love the outdoors. I am an avid golfer and love to walk and bike and work in my flower beds with my bulldogs, Ruby and Pearl. My partner, Mary, and I love to travel and when we do – it always involves an ocean.

Q: What deep dark secret would you like to share?

I hate coconut. I am acrophobic. I always drive a little over the speed limit.

Q: Name one of your personal or professional qualities that make you, or will make you, a leader in 21st century library and information centers.

I am a critical thinker. I am a social activist. I am a reflective practitioner. I lead by example.
Q: What advice do you have for current Graduate Students?

Work hard to balance life and work and school. You’re in charge of your life whether it feels like it or not. I literally mark out days on my calendar so that I have time to play and rest – if I don’t do that, I see an empty slot in my calendar and fill it without thinking – so mark out time for yourself and others on your calendars too! Don’t take too many classes at a time – take what your life allows. Talk to Dr. Pasco OFTEN to make sure you’re on track in your educational journey!

Q: What do you see as key future trends and challenges in LIS?

Libraries and information centers have NO future if library schools don’t produce library professionals who can clearly articulate their missions to their communities and back up the talk with meaningful and direct action. We need confident, caring and committed folks who love libraries and will do whatever it takes to guide them through the dramatic social, economic and political changes that lie ahead.

Q: What do you think will be your legacy in this profession?

I want to be remembered as a hard-working, compassionate human being who did everything she could to produce positive and proactive leaders for Nebraska libraries.

Q: Any Last Words?

It’s nice to be important – but it’s more important to be nice. (don’t know the author – but I love the words).

Student Spotlight

Thanks to Ben Brick and Laura England for taking time out of their very busy schedules to let us get to know them better.

Ben:

Q: What is your education/library/professional background?

B.S in Bible and Humanities, Grace College of the Bible
B.A. in History, University of Nebraska at Omaha

I have worked for the Omaha Public Library (both part and full time) since September 6, 1986.

Q: What is on your reading list? What are your favorites/your recommended/your want to read lists?

With Reference class and Comps, I have very little time to read right now. When I make time, I am currently reading, Heresies: Heresy and Orthodoxy in the History of the Church by Harold O.J. Brown. I also will make time for whatever the latest Star Wars novel or paperback is.
Q: What do you do in your “down time”? Your hobbies/recreation, how do you relax?

I watch television, listen to the radio, read, or play video games. I hope to do some relaxing after graduation.

Q: What deep dark secret would you like to share?

What? Is this question for blackmailing me later when I am rich and famous? Oh wait, I am studying library science. There will be little fame or fortune where I am heading.

Q: Name one of your personal or professional qualities that make you, or will make you, a leader in 21st century library and information centers.

I believe that my ability to communicate, and the value I place upon communication, is an important quality for leaders to possess in today’s libraries. We must be able to communicate within our profession in order to build understanding and cooperation. We must communicate with our communities in order to demonstrate that we are relevant and valuable. We also must communicate with those in charge in order to guide them into understanding what we need in order to function properly in the 21st century.

Q: What advice do you have for current Graduate Students?

Hang in there. It will be all worthwhile in the end. You will not only have the piece of paper you need to prove you can do the work, but the tools and skills in order to do the work well. And take the time to appreciate your professors; they really do know what they are talking about, even Budd. I know. What a kiss-up!

Q: What do you see as key future trends and challenges in LIS?

One challenge is salary. Given what most libraries are paying at all position levels, this is not an attractive field into which to go. We, as library professionals, need to sell our civic leaders on the value we bring to the community in order to be paid a competitive wage. We also need to do the things we are selling the leaders on as well. Unfortunately, one trend is that libraries are seeing their budgets cut, because we are viewed as expensive alternatives to Google. So this presents another challenge. A positive trend is that despite this, the libraries are slowly beginning to respond to the challenges in creative ways that bodes well for our future. We just need to keep it up!

Q: What do you think will be your legacy in this profession?

Besides the imprint I will leave behind in my chair, I would like to think that I will have made positive changes that provide lasting value to the libraries, and the lives, I touch. Plus a nice impressive building named after me would be cool.

Q: Any Last Words?

Not today. I don’t plan on dying just yet.

Laura:

Q: What is your education/library/professional background?

I started my library education early – helping my mother put cards & pockets in the books for her libraries at Field Club & Vinton back in the 70’s. When I graduated with my BS in theatre arts (in 1991!), I came back to Omaha and worked with the Shakespeare Festival. After that gig ended, I went to work part-time at the Bellevue Public Library in tech services as a clerk. My supervisor let me help with a retro-conversion project, which got me hooked on cataloging. I still want to be a cataloger when I grow up!

After Bellevue, I wandered around book-type places before ending up at Metro Community College’s Library Services (administrative) offices. I spent six years there, and learned a little bit about a lot. I was re-introduced to working the desk, and helping field reference questions. When I finally decided to go back to school in the summer of 2002, I knew I’d found the place I belong.

I recently started a new job as the Assistant Director at the Keene Memorial Library in Fremont. It’s been wonderful so far and I’m finding ways to use all sorts of things that I’ve learned over the years.

Q: What is on your reading list? What are your favorites/your recommended/your want to read lists?

My reading list is huge – but it’s all for Information Policy and Adult Services! 😊 Favorite authors include Laurie R. King, Laurell K. Hamilton, and Caleb Carr. One of my all-time favorite reads was Siddhartha by Hesse. Heady stuff but there’s a lot to get out of the book if you let it read you instead of the other way around. And I’m also a Harry Potter fan – books more than the movies, but the movies are great too. I haven’t started Half-Blood Prince yet (have to keep something as a reward for getting final projects in on time!!) so if we’re having a conversation and it comes up, don’t be hurt if I turn away quickly and start humming. It’s only because I want to be surprised!

Q: What do you do in your “down time”? Your hobbies/recreation, how do you relax?

Down time. What’s that? Oh wait... I do sit and play with the two very spoiled cats who allow me to live in their house. Once in a while I play in the flower beds. And on some very rare occasions, I get together with friends and go out for dinner/to a movie/shopping, anything at all as long as we’re having fun.

Q: What deep dark secret would you like to share?

Dr. Budd’s classes aren’t as scary as I thought they would be, and I think Dr. Seavey (aka “the prof”) is a hoot.

Q: Name one of your personal or professional qualities that make you, or will make you, a leader in 21st century library and information centers.

I don’t take no for an answer, I listen and paraphrase what I’ve heard to be sure I understand the other person, and I always remember there’s very little I can do that can’t be fixed by a sincere apology and/or the magic keystrokes Edit-Undo.

Q: What advice do you have for current Graduate Students?

Don’t wait as long as I did to ask for help in the form of student loans. I was living hand-to-mouth for a while before a friend took me by the hand and said “Just apply for the loans so you can go out to eat once in a while without searching for change in the couch cushions.”

Get into good study habits early – it’ll save you a lot of heartache. I wish I could say mine are well-formed and consistent. They’re not. But I’ve also learned that I work well under pressure. If you’re like that, do the research ahead of time, be comfortable with working at your own (sometimes frantic) pace and you’ll be much happier.
If you’re the type who has to have everything done two weeks in advance, bless you. I’d say ease up but that would stress you out as much as my being told to work ahead! So I guess you can just sit back and relax and enjoy the weekend movie marathons…

Q: What do you see as key future trends and challenges in LIS?

Digitization, metadata and the future of MARC/CORC/Dublin Core/XML. Can you tell I’m focused on cataloging?? We’ve only begun to see how the Patriot Act, CIPA and other privacy issues affect all kinds of libraries. Technology will remain at the forefront of our concerns – especially given the issues of privacy and security in wireless environments.

Q: What do you think will be your legacy in this profession?

I think I said I wanted to change the face of librarianship when I wrote my admission essay. I suppose that’s still true – I like to break molds and be different - but now I have loftier goals. I want my own action figure, just like Nancy Pearl… Bookgirl, faster than a SQL command, stronger than the foil-backed label adhesive, able to scan multiple barcodes in less than a minute...

Q: Any Last Words?

Always be a professional no matter where you are. It’ll pay off in so many ways – you never know who your future boss will be talking to when your name comes up! Remember you’re more than your title – don’t be so invested in making a living that you don’t have time to live. Be serious about the work, but never take it or yourself too seriously. Life’s too short 😊

Practicum Applications

For those who are planning on completing a practicum during the Winter 2006 semester, please see the information below. If you haven’t already done so, you will need to contact Dr. Becky Pasco at rpasco@mail.unomaha.edu in order to arrange your practicum.

Following are the important steps for the practicum process.

1. Contact Dr. Pasco and tell her what semester you want to complete your practicum and what type of library you are interested in. You will need to apply for the practicum during early registration for that semester. For instance, to complete a practicum in Winter 2006, you will need to apply for your practicum during early registration this semester (Fall 2005).

2. Also discuss how many hours/credits you will want to complete. She will handle all of the initial contacts with potential libraries/supervising librarians.

3. Decide which of the two practica courses you need to take. Course 7380 is Practicum in School Libraries and Course 7381 is Practicum in Information Agencies (Public, Academic, or Special Libraries).

4. Make sure that you have taken the prerequisite courses. The courses required for each of the practa are different, so check the guide for the appropriate course – School Libraries (7380) or Information Agencies (7381). These guides are available at http://sislt.missouri.edu/practicum_faq.html - scroll down to the bottom of the page to find the appropriate links. If you will be taking a perquisite course during the semester of your practicum, check with the practicum coordinator.

5. Once the supervising librarian agrees to host you as a practicum student, Dr. Pasco will give you the appropriate contact information. You can then contact the librarian and set up an initial meeting to discuss what you will do during your practicum.

6. Either before or after you meet with your supervising librarian, you may turn in your Practicum Application to the appropriate Practicum Coordinator.

Contact information for 7380:
Linda Esser
EsserL@missouri.edu
573-882-1023

Practicum Coordinator for 7381:
Anita Phipps
Randaph@aol.com
573-446-8716
7. Your Practicum Coordinator will approve your practicum application and will give you permission to enroll in your practicum.

8. In addition to your application, you will need to submit a learning plan for your practicum. This document will describe your learning objectives and projects that you will complete at your location. More detail about learning plan requirements is provided in your practicum guide. If you have trouble writing your learning plan, don’t worry! E-mail your Practicum Coordinator, Dr. Pasco, or the current grad assistant (the practicum coordinators are very helpful, so don’t be afraid to send them and outline or draft of your learning plan – they can offer suggestions).

9. Once you have completed your learning plan, send a copy to your practicum coordinator via e-mail. You will receive a response – it will either pass approval or you will be told what to change/add. If applicable, send the revised copy to your coordinator.

10. Once the coordinator approves your learning plan, you and your supervising librarian will need to sign and date the form. You will then send the signed form to your practicum coordinator.

11. You’re done with application process!

Please contact Joyce Keber at jskm84@mizzou.edu if you have any questions about the practicum process.

Scholarships
