MESSAGE FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
Dear Indian community and Supporters,

We would like to welcome the readers of our monthly HONGA. Since our last HONGA went to press, there has been some very interesting activities in our Indian community, reservations, cities, states, and nation involving our Indian people.

Through the efforts of the American Indian Center staff and board of directors, we will keep you abreast of these activities as they occur from time to time on a monthly basis. If any individual has an article to be published, please call or bring it to your American Indian Center HONGA Editor for publication for our Indian community readership.

In the month of July the AICO staff prepared their annual continuation grants in order to continue the program services your Indian Center has to offer the community. Special thanks for their efforts -- alcoholism; health & nutrition; health careers; administration. Through the National offices and Indian desks, we anticipate favorable results in maintaining the government’s responsibility to our Indian people. These programs will support the progress of our people.

This month we have applied for two important grants: United Way, $57,536 for the development of a total youth program; SEDs, $70,587 to promote socio self-sufficiency and economic development through developing an overall strategy of program development through a human and social service network.

Respectfully,

Timothy F. Woodhull, Executive Director
American Indian Center of Omaha, Inc.
Representative, Nebraska Indian Commission

TRIBAL OFFICIAL: BURKE WRONG

The Chairman of the Omaha Tribe said that a recent lawsuit attempting to return the Black Hills to Indians has no relationship to the Omaha tribe's claim to 2,900 acres in the Blackbird Bend areas along the Missouri River east of Macy, Nebraska.

Eddie Cline said tribal members disagreed with comments by Omaha attorney Tom Burke that the Black Hills lawsuit, filed last week, gives a boost to white persons' hopes that the U.S. Supreme Court will hear the Blackbird Bend case.

Burke had said that some issues in the two cases are similar. A key issue is an 8th U.S. Circuit Court ruling that if Indians once had possession of land, and white persons later moved onto it, the whites bear the burden of proving they have title.

Burke said he hoped the Supreme Court would hear the Blackbird Bend case in helping set precedent for the Black Hills suit and other Indian land claims.

Cline said Burke is wrong.

"The Blackbird Bend lands always have been part of the Omaha Indian Reservation although the lands are now east of the Missouri River, and the 8th Circuit Court and Supreme Court held that the tribe proved its claim to the extent required by law," Cline said.

TIME TO PACK?
By Robert McMorris (Omaha World Herald)

A woman who lives in Washington state wrote to an Omaha friend, Mabel Sias, that survivors of the volcanic eruptions at Mount St. Helena included a family of Indians who moved away from the foot of the mountain a year ago because one of them had a vision it was "going to blow."

The Washingtonian said she is a bit apprehensive because another Indian vision revealed that Mount Baker and Mount Rainier will also erupt. She added, "I asked this fellow (the predictor) how soon that would happen so I could pack a bag and request a vacation and head for Hawaii. He said, 'Indians have never had a sense of time. It could be a day or a hundred years.'"

"HOMeward the Arrow's Flight"
By Wayne Tyndall

The foregoing title is the name of the new book written by Marion Marsh Brown of Omaha about Dr. Susan LaFlesche Picotte, an Omaha Indian and the first Indian woman of her race to become a medical doctor.

A daughter of Joseph LaFlesche, the Omaha Indian chief, known as Iron Eye, Susan was a younger sister of Suzette LaFlesche, known as Bright Eyes.
In 1879 at the age of 14, Susan left the Omaha Reservation to attend Elizabeth Institute in New Jersey and then Hampton Institute in Virginia, an Indian boarding school. Later, she received her medical degree at Philadelphia Women's Medical College graduating at the top of her class and, after interning, returned to practice medicine on the Omaha Reservation.

After marriage to Henry Picotte, a Yankton Sioux whom she had met while attending Hampton, she practiced in Bancroft, Nebraska, and later in Walthill, where she established a hospital. After her death, it was named the Dr. Susan Picotte Memorial Hospital. It is now a nursing home.

On August 25 from 11 to 2 p.m. an autograph party will be held at Kieser's Book Store, 1516 Capitol Avenue, Omaha, Nebraska 68102.

The new book "Homeward the Arrow's Flight" is now on sale for $7.95 plus 35¢ sales tax. If you are interested in ordering the book, add a $1.00 for postage. Out of state orders do not pay the sales tax.

Everyone is invited to attend the autograph party said Rick Kieser.

JO ANN YELLOW BIRD IS DEAD

Jo Ann Yellow Bird who recently made headlines when she won a $300,000 civil rights judgment against the City of Gordon, Ne., has committed suicide by taking strychnine. She died on July 7, hours after she had been rushed to the Rapid City Regional Hospital. She was the mother of eight children. They live near Martin, S.D.

Following a 1975 bar brawl in Gordon, Ne., Mrs. Yellow Bird filed an $8 million civil rights suit against the City of Gordon, Sheridan County and seven individuals.

Mrs. Yellow Bird contended a Gordon officer kicked her in the abdomen, that sheriff's deputies refused to take her to a hospital for hours after she asked for help, and that another police officer told her on the way to jail that he didn't know whether "to take you out in the country and shoot you or take you to jail." She lost her baby.

Western Nebraska is widely known for its mistreatment of native Americans.

On June 27, 1917, Mr. Robinson entered the 6th Nebraska Infantry in Valhala, Nebraska. He spent some time in River Poil England and France during his twenty-two months in the military service. Sam along with John Robinson and Andy Seidman are the only three surviving World War I veterans among the Omaha Tribe, according to Mrs. Robinson.

The Robinsons' two daughters, Victoria and Mary La Bertha and grand-children are sponsoring a gourd dance and war dance for the occasion. The celebration is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. Clifford Wolfe of Macy will be in charge of the dance and will serve as master of ceremonies.

The head lady dancer will be Theresa Nowland and the head singer will be Lucie Sheridan both of Macy. The head man dancer will be Joe Harlan of Winnebagro. The staff for the dance are all members of the Omaha Tribe.
