What is Pre-Health?

Pre-Health is a designation that indicates your interest in a health profession. Pre-health is not a major at UNO. It is series of pre-requisite courses that prepare you for a health profession of your choice. While UNO does not award degrees in health professional programs, we can help you to be a successful candidate through guided coursework and one-on-one advisina.

In addition to your pre-health designation(s), you are strongly encouraged to choose a major that will help you to obtain your goals. Our pre-professional curriculums allow you to pursue the major of your choice while completing the pre-requisites often at the same time.

Explore UNO's Pre-Health Options

We want to help you find your passion in the health professions. Getting involved in health care by joining the UNO Pre-Health Professionals Club, volunteering or shadowing are all great ways to have a better understanding of the various professions. We also encourage you register for BIOL 1060 – Introduction to Medical Careers as a way to be aware of all of your options.

If you are considering a health profession in an area that UNO does not currently offer pre-professional curriculum, don't worry. Regardless of your plans, schedule an appointment with Pre-Health Advising to talk about your goals.

Contact Pre-Health Advising at 402-554-5980.
