UNO / Student Life / Service / The Collaborative

The Student Service and Leadership Collaborative (The Collaborative) is a student-led program created to organize and coordinate university-wide community service and volunteering opportunities. The goal of this program is to help students create positive social change in our community and develop new skills that will benefit them during their college years and beyond.

Get Involved with The Collaborative:

- Want to hear about our student employment position? We have the information here.
- Passionate about service and volunteerism? We have a great opportunity for you.
- Do you have an idea for The Collaborative? We want to hear it.
- Interested in learning more about this program? Here's what we have to say.

Research shows that students involved in community activities, like service learning or volunteerism, while in college are more likely to stay in school, graduate, find a job, maintain employment, and be involved in community leadership after graduation.

The Collaborative's inclusive programming model will provide students and volunteers with great opportunities to engage with the community both locally and beyond. Thanks to this program, students and nonprofit organizations can come together to create service projects that address one or more of the current social issue areas affecting our community.

Student leaders support six primary community service areas in The Collaborative:
