SPR Welcomes Dr. Scott Snyder as the new Associate Vice Chancellor for Research and Creative Activity!

Dr. Scott Snyder is (re)joining the UNO community as Associate Vice Chancellor for Research and Creative Activity. Most recently, Dr. Snyder served as a Program Director in the Division of Environmental Biology at the National Science Foundation in Arlington, Virginia, while on a leave of absence from UNO. At NSF, Scott was responsible for developing and overseeing funding programs in biodiversity science. Dr. Snyder first joined UNO in 2001 as a faculty member in Biology, previously held a faculty position at the University of Wisconsin Oshkosh, and was an NSF/Alfred P. Sloan Postdoctoral Fellow in Molecular Evolution at the University of New Mexico. Scott earned the Ph.D. in parasitology at UNL, where he also earned his B.S. in biology. His M.S., also in parasitology, comes from Wake Forest University. Scott's research interests lie in parasite biodiversity and in exploring the evolutionary relationships of parasites, particularly those that live in and on reptiles and amphibians. He is very excited about working with UNO faculty, staff, and students to nurture and grow scholarly activity on campus. Scott enjoys traveling, cooking, and a variety of outdoor activities, including hiking, camping and gardening. He lives in Omaha with his wife, Maggie, and two daughters, Adelaide and Evie.
