UNO / Information Services / About Us / CFE / API

The Academic Partnership for Instruction (API), a division of Information Services, provides instructional technology support by offering both pedagogical consultations and hands-on technology training. On July 1, 2016 the Center for Faculty Excellence (CFE) and API combined to create a new matrix-ed organization for faculty support at UNO.

CFE / API Staff

The CFE / API team is devoted to pedagogical, technical, and professional development support for UNO faculty. As part of their mission, the staff keep abreast of best practices in distance education, blended learning, and strategies supporting the use of technology to facilitate teaching and learning.

Faculty Resource Portal

The portal provides UNO teaching faculty, instructors, and graduate teaching assistants with resources supporting technology-integrated teaching and learning. The materials found on this portal have been curated by the CFE / API staff along with help from UNO faculty. Their discoveries and insights are shared here, contributing to UNO's commitment to academic excellence through faculty development and research.

Teaching & Technology Center

The Teaching & Technology Center (TTC) is located in Kayser Hall room 538 and is staffed by instructional designers from the CFE / API. The goal of the Teaching and Technology Center is to inspire, encourage, and support UNO faculty/staff who integrate technology into teaching to make learning more dynamic for students. The Center is intended to provide UNO faculty and staff with a collaborative learning environment that serves as a catalyst for collegial exchange about the innovative uses of technology in education.
