Civil Aviation in Afghanistan

The Afghan Air Force, following World War II, has brought rapid development and efficiency.

In an interview some time ago, Maj. Gen. Soofi commented: "The Afghan Air Force is the second largest in the region and will continue to expand in the future. We have been working hard to ensure that all Afghan airfields are operational and that our aircraft are well maintained. With the support of friends and allies, our Air Force is ready to take on any challenge."

Revisions Efforts at Brussels Conference

BRUSSELS, April 13 (PR) - Government representatives of the 16 African republics and the six European Common Market (C.E.C.) countries met yesterday afternoon for talks aimed at hastening the Afro-European Association on new contractual foundations.

The talks are expected to continue today as well, with the aim of reaching an agreement on the new contractual framework. The discussions are expected to conclude tomorrow, with a joint communiqué expected to be issued.

Hiroshima "Peace Pilgrims" Call For Ban On A-Bombs

NEW YORK, April 13 (PR) - Two Hiroshima "peace pilgrims" have issued an urgent plea for a total ban on atomic weapons. "We urge all nations to lay down their arms and work toward a world free of nuclear weapons," they said.

They are among a group of over 100 peace activists who are on a month-long tour of the United States, aiming to raise awareness about the dangers of nuclear weapons and to promote peace.

New U.S. Mediation Effort In West Irian Dispute

WASHINGTON, Apr. 11—President Kennedy has named a new mediator to try to resolve the dispute between the United States and Indonesia over West Irian. The new mediator, U.S. Senator John F. Kennedy, will travel to the region next week to meet with officials from both countries.

Kennedy's announcement follows a series of meetings between U.S. and Indonesian officials in recent weeks in an effort to find a solution to the issue.

U.S. Team Meets U.K. Ministers

"Useful Exchange of Views" Washington, Apr. 11—Foreign Minister McChord and his British counterpart met here yesterday. The two ministers exchanged views on a range of topics, including the situation in the Middle East and the need for a peaceful resolution.

"We discussed the importance of maintaining peace and stability in the region. The situation is delicate and we must work together to ensure a peaceful resolution," McChord said.

"I agree completely," the British minister replied. "We must keep the lines of communication open and work towards a peaceful resolution.

New Syrian Government This Week

LONDON, Apr. 11—Three new cabinet ministers were announced today in the latest move to form a new government in Syria. The appointments were announced by President Bashar al-Assad, who is expected to announce the full cabinet this week.

The new ministers include a finance minister, an agriculture minister, and a defense minister. The appointments are seen as a step towards a more democratic government.

"These appointments are part of a broader plan to create a more democratic government in Syria," Assad said. "We are determined to create a government that is representative of the Syrian people.

"We will continue to work towards this goal," he added.
