A Survey Of Educational Developments In Afghanistan During The First Five Year Development Plan

The need for educated personnel to face the problems of the social-economic development of Afghanistan in the Second Five Year Development Plan is a urgent problem. It is only too apparent that currently the country has less than one percent of its total population which can be considered educated. The present educational system is heavily influenced by traditional problems and special situations which have affected the effectiveness of education. Nevertheless, education is now a central problem in view of the new social-economic needs of the country. The Ministry of Education, therefore, has begun the first steps in making education a basic tool for the development of the country.

In order to meet this need, the government has launched a number of educational initiatives. Among these, the most significant are the Second Five Year Development Plan and the establishment of the Education Institute. The Second Five Year Development Plan aims to increase the country's educational capacity by providing schools and training facilities. The Education Institute, on the other hand, is responsible for the provision of educational services and facilities.

The government has also set up a number of educational centers and institutions to provide educational services. These include the University of Kabul, the Kabul Teacher Training College, and the Afghan Institute of Technology.

The government has also taken steps to improve the quality of education. This includes the introduction of modern educational methods and the training of teachers.

The government has also made efforts to increase the enrollment of girls in schools. This is one of the most significant achievements of the Second Five Year Development Plan. The government has also worked to provide educational services to the rural areas, which were previously neglected.

In conclusion, the Second Five Year Development Plan has made significant progress in improving Afghanistan's educational system. The government has made significant efforts to increase the country's educational capacity and to provide educational services to all sections of the population. The government has also worked to improve the quality of education and to increase the enrollment of girls in schools.
