History

The University of Nebraska at Omaha had its beginnings in the University of Omaha, a private college established in 1908. The University of Omaha, a co-educational institution affiliated with the Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Omaha,[1] admitted its first twenty-six students for the Fall 1909 semester under the leadership of founding president Dr. Daniel E. Jenkins.[2] The University grew swiftly, with the original twenty-six students growing to approximately a thousand by 1929.[3]

Between 1918 and 1933, the number of municipal universities in the United States expanded from twenty-three to 167, and the University of Omaha was part of this trend.[4] In May 1930, the people of Omaha voted to accept the University as a city institution, and the Regents of the Municipal University of Omaha, appointed by the Omaha Board of Education, assumed control of the institution in January 1931. As enrollment and library holdings continued to grow, new facilities became necessary.[5] In November 1936, the University obtained a New Deal grant from the Public Works Administration to aid in the construction of a new campus at 60th and Dodge Streets.[6] What is now Arts and Sciences Hall opened for summer classes in 1938.[7]

The University experienced another major transformation in 1968 with its integration into the University of Nebraska, accomplished with the overwhelming support of students and citizens.[8] The Municipal University of Omaha had 8,730 students in the fall of 1967; by 1970, the University of Nebraska at Omaha had a fall enrollment of 13,185.

The University of Nebraska at Omaha's growth has continued. The Peter Kiewit Institute, the first building on the Pacific Street Campus, opened in 1999 to house UNO's College of Information Science and Technology and the Omaha programs of the University of Nebraska–Lincoln's College of Engineering and Technology. The first student housing at UNO also opened in 1999; student housing has since expanded to provide over 1,600 beds, allowing a tenth of the student body to live on campus. As of January 22, 2010, the campus is planning construction of another student housing facility on the Pacific Street site near the Scott Conference Center. Mammel Hall, the new home of the College of Business Administration was dedicated October, 2010. The Health, Physical Education, and Recreation Building renovation was dedicated October, 2010. The Welcome Center was dedicated August, 2010.

As of the Fall 2020 semester, with 15,892 students from 65 different countries, nearly 40 percent of which are first-generation and 10 percent of which are military affiliated, UNO is a university that changes lives for generations. The physical footprint continues to evolve as well. Projects recently completed or currently underway include:

- Connie Clausen Field and Tal Anderson Field
- The development of the Rod Rhoden Business Innovation Center expansion at Mammel Hall
- Arts & Sciences Hall renovation Phase I and Phase II projects have already been completed and are fully operational.
- The Biomechanics Research extension was completed and is fully functional.
- Phase I of the Strauss Performing Arts Center renovation project was successfully completed and Phase II is actively underway.

UNO is classified as both a Carnegie Doctoral/Research institute as well as a Carnegie Community Engagement university – one of the first universities to be honored with that distinct classification. Offering more than 200 majors and programs across six academic colleges UNO provides first-time or returning students the flexibility to shape their own degree programs while gaining learned experiences outside of the classroom, including service to the community, internships, and sponsored research opportunities under the guidance of national and international faculty experts and leaders in business, government, and the non-profit sector.

* Fall 2017: The NU Common App was launched, allowing students to easily apply to multiple campuses. This has disparately increased the number of applied and admitted students when compared to applicants enrolled, so yield numbers for 2017 and beyond are not directly comparable to 2016 and prior.
