ACADEMIC REGALIA

Identification of the hood and robe as academic apparel is believed to have originated at the English universities of Oxford and Cambridge during the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. The hoods are a carry-over from the times when monks, who operated these universities, wore them to protect their shaved heads in winter. The robe is an adaptation of the shoulder cape also worn by these same monks while collecting alms.

Use of the academic robe came to the United States in 1754 with the founding of what is now Columbia University. In 1895, a commission of University officials adopted a universal code of design and color for the academic garb. This code has undergone several revisions in subsequent years.

Styling of the robes varies for the bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees with the width of sleeve borders and length of the hood increasing with each advanced degree. Hoods are normally not used for bachelor's degrees today. Instead, the tassel colors are used to indicate the degree program. All doctoral degree recipients are indicated by a gold tassel.

UNIVERSITY HONORS PROGRAM

The University Honors Program is an all-University program which provides maximum educational opportunities for students of high ability through special multidisciplinary seminars and participation in an academic level not generally possible in usual curricular offerings.

The program is an outgrowth of the Arts and Sciences Honors program and was initiated in 1978. It is governed through the office of the Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs and administered through the Honors Coordinator. UNO colleges which implement honors programs include Arts and Sciences; Business Administration; Education; Public Affairs and Community Service; Information Science and Technology; and Communication, Fine Arts and Media.

As part of their Honors Program requirements, students undertake a research project that results in a Senior Honors Thesis. Students and their theses topics are listed at the end of the list of graduates. Students who have been designated in this booklet as Honors Program students have fulfilled the academic requirements of this program.

CHANCELLOR'S MEDAL RECIPIENT

MARY LAURA FARNHAM

Mary Laura Farnham has been director of the Office of Sponsored Programs and Research (SPR) at the University of Nebraska at Omaha for the past decade. The office is responsible for providing support and guidance to faculty and staff as they pursue external support for research, service and scholarly activities.

Under her leadership, the university's awards and submissions to external funding agencies have more than doubled. In January of 2005, the University of Nebraska Board of Regents passed a resolution recognizing the exceptional work of Farnham and her staff.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska, Farnham earned her bachelor of science degree from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and a master of science degree from UNO. She also holds a Nebraska Teaching Certificate and a Nebraska Administrative and Supervisory Certificate.

Her educational background has been vital to the development of the many training opportunities that are available for UNO faculty and staff. Farnham and her staff sponsor an annual luncheon to meet newly appointed faculty and provide them with guidance in navigating the UNO research administration processes.

The Grant Management Information series, coordinated by Farnham, combines expertise from various UNO business and accounting units in a professional development opportunity for administrators and support staff. She also initiated the SPR Faculty Brown Bag series where, throughout the academic year, faculty experts speak on topics of interest to UNO's junior researchers.

Before joining UNO in 1996, Farnham was acting department administrator in the Department of Radiation Oncology and grants administrator for the Departments of Radiology and Radiation Oncology at the University of Nebraska Medical Center (UNMC). She also worked as a graduate teaching assistant in the UNO Department of Teacher Education and has been a classroom teacher in Omaha and Colorado.

Farnham is currently active in the Nebraska Research Administrators Group, the Society of Research Administrators and the National Council of University Research Administrators, where she is a past regional board member and has held many leadership positions. She is a member of the University of Nebraska Federal Relations Team and an ex-officio member of the University Committee on Research.

In addition, she has contributed to the UNO Committee on Library and Learning Resources and was selected as a member of the UNO Women's Leadership Institute. While at UNMC, Farnham was a member of both the University of Nebraska College of Medicine Clinical Administrators Group and the College of Medicine Departmental Administrative Staff.

A longtime advocate for education, she was a member of the Swanson School and Westside Middle School Community Clubs' Board of Directors, in addition to the Westside High School Vocal Music Parents' Association. In 1988, former Nebraska Sen. David Karnes appointed her to the U.S. Senate Educational Advisory Committee.

Farnham, a lifelong resident of the Omaha metropolitan area, has been a positive force beyond the university community. Her community service activities include participation on the Omaha Municipal Orchestra Board of Directors, Omaha Children's Museum Board of Directors and Omaha Community Playhouse Act II Board of Directors, as well as the Junior League of Omaha. She has actively volunteered with the Omaha Symphony, Joslyn Art Museum, Henry Doorly Zoo and Clarkson Hospital.

The Chancellor's Medal at the University of Nebraska at Omaha was established to recognize the contribution of faculty and administrative staff who embody the institution's mission and values. It is bestowed only to those within the university community who have demonstrated unusual excellence.
