_NDCS Reentry Services_

Vocational and Life Skills Program Overview

Reentry requires a systemic approach for incarcerated individuals to return to their communities. It is not a “program;” rather, it is an intentional mind-set or method of facilitating used to prepare individuals to be contributing members of a community.

Successful reentry:

- Provides increased public safety by reducing the number of future victims
  - This is achieved by reducing the likelihood of continued criminal behavior, essentially lowering the recidivism rate
- Provides a plan for assessing and addressing risks and needs
  - This plan involves a reentry-focused case management system from first contact to release and community reintegration
- Provides for a smooth transition of an individual from incarceration or court-ordered supervision into his/her community
  - Facilitation of this transition includes a focus on discharge planning, family reunification, life skills and meaningful work
- Provides opportunities for career development and placement as a means of supporting oneself and one’s family
  - These opportunities are enhanced through targeted vocational and life skills training programs

The criminal justice system cannot fully achieve comprehensive reentry services and planning without community providers. This solicitation is a continuation of the work being done inside NDCS facilities, which creates a bridge for the individual to successfully return to the community.

The Nebraska Department of Correctional Services (NDCS) is soliciting applications for vocational and life skills training programs to provide services to individuals who are currently incarcerated, under parole supervision, under probation supervision. Eligible program participants may access services for up to 18 months following release or discharge from supervision.

An annual allocation of $3.5 M is available each year of the two-year grant period. There is no set limit on the number of organizations that may be awarded.

Successful applicants will be capable of training this target population before and/or after release. Individuals receiving vocational and life skills training inside are more prepared to make significant strides toward a more positive reintegration to the community immediately upon release. Programs that deliver services inside and connect individuals to services on the outside further enhance the likelihood of successful reentry. These programs aid the department in increasing public safety, effectively reducing recidivism, providing meaningful vocational and life skills training, and facilitate the successful reentry as individuals return to their communities. Applicants must be able to identify how their program/services directly connect the participants with meaningful employment.

Grant Review Team

The Vocational & Life Skills (VLS) Program grant review team will consist of individuals from each of the following: NDCS Reentry Services; NDCS staff; State Probation; NDCS Adult Parole Administration; and the Board of Parole.

Applications will be ranked following a review of each response, to include thoroughness, applicability to the NDCS Reentry Services and statutory requirements, and ability to meet requirements set forth in the application, using the points noted in section 4. The Grant review team may follow-up to clarify information provided.

Program Evaluation Components/Requirements

Program evaluations will be conducted by the Nebraska Center for Justice Research at the University of Nebraska Omaha to identify how programs meet the objectives of lowering recidivism and obtaining and maintaining employment.

The evaluation portion of the grant is funded through NDCS. Evaluation expenses are not necessary or allowable in the grant proposal. Information from the evaluations and data collection procedures employed under this grant may help your program secure additional outside funding in the future.

Evaluation Expectations

Programs are expected to comply with evaluation procedures. This requires the ability to use a data management system and work within set data protocols. In addition to the list below, other evaluation related activities may be added as needed. Failure to comply with evaluation and/or data requirements may result in a loss of partial or all funding.
I. Training on Performance Measures and Data Collection

NDCS will provide and grantees are required to attend training on program outcome and performance measures during which the training will assist the grantee in developing a program logic model and discuss the benefits and limitations of their data and how it will be used in the evaluation. UNO evaluators and the data coordinator will provide training on how to gather, store and report program data. The UNO data coordinator will work as an intermediary with the programs and the evaluator to provide training and address concerns from programs as needed.

II. Site Visits

Evaluators will tour each program at the beginning of the grant period after trainings are provided on performance measures and data collection procedures. Program staff will provide evaluators with an overview of the program, including current data collected, as well as any materials given or collected during the program (intake forms, surveys, program handbooks, fliers, et al.). The data coordinator will be available for additional site visits as needed to provide help with any questions or concerns with the data collection process.

III. Program Data Collection

Training will be provided on the data collection procedures and data will be submitted on a monthly basis to the evaluators. Programs will be provided a user subscription (at no cost to the program) to an online data management system where required participant data is to be submitted. Data must be submitted exactly as requested in this format. Programs that have other data tracking procedures will need to submit required data in the correct format to the online data management system before monthly due dates. Data monitoring may occur monthly, or as frequently as needed, to ensure that all of the required information can be gathered with minimal additional impact on program staff and resources. The data coordinator will be available as needed to help with any data questions or concerns. Program staff may also work with the data coordinator to submit any additional program data that is not a part of the required list of variables. Additional data on participants will be collected from other sources to measure recidivism and employment outcomes (e.g., official agency data, employers).

The following variables must be collected for each participant in the program and uploaded monthly to the data management system or more often if participant information changes.

Cost for individual

Additionally, grantees must provide the information below to NDCS monthly to comply with state statute.

- Number Receiving Programming this Month
- Number Successfully Completing this Month
- Cumulative Total Number Receiving Program (total grant cycle)
- Cumulative Total Number Successfully Completing (total grant cycle)
- Cost per Individual

IV. Participant surveys

Toward the end of the participants’ involvement in the program, evaluators will provide a short anonymous, online survey to be completed by each participant. Grantees must have the means to administer the survey on-site. (Accommodations will be made for programs delivered inside.) Elements of the surveys include: program satisfaction, attitudinal and behavioral changes, and additional barriers to success they may face in their reentry. These surveys will aid both NDCS and program staff in better understanding clients’ perceived strengths and challenges of the program, particularly as they relate to reentry and the ability to obtain and keep employment after involvement with the criminal justice system. This information may also be of value to programs in their attempts to secure future funding from other external sources.

V. Participant interviews

Evaluators will conduct interviews with a minimum of two participants who are nearing the end of each program each year. The semi-structured interviews will take place on site. This is an opportunity to collect qualitative information that will provide a broader story for the program.
participants. The interviews will allow participants to expand on things covered in the surveys (program satisfaction, attitudinal and behavioral changes, and barriers to success) as well as other reentry topics. Programs will be provided with an interview protocol prior to interviews taking place and are expected to work with evaluators to assist the participant selection process for interviews.

VI. Staff surveys

Evaluators will conduct staff surveys with each staff member funded through the grant twice during the two-year grant period. The survey will be administered online and will measure grantee satisfaction with the various aspects of the grant process. Additional questions will allow staff to further explain any successes and challenges they faced as well as an opportunity to provide suggestions to make the experience more valuable.

The Department will determine the grant award based on the grant recipient's application and ability to meet the program objectives.

001.05 Disbursements

Vocational and Life Skills Program grants shall be disbursed as outlined in the grant announcement and grant award document. Grant awards may be increased up to the full amount requested if additional funds are available during the fiscal year.

001.06 Performance Requirements

The grant recipient shall submit reports (including financial reports meeting the requirements outlined in the grant award document and special conditions) to the Department on a quarterly basis and a final performance report upon completion of the grant award cycle. The reports shall include, but are not limited to, the following components. Monitoring of the project is required.

- The types of programming
- The cost per participant for the program, service or training provided
- The number of participants served, including the number of participants who successfully completed the program
- The effectiveness of the program or progress toward evaluation of same

001.06A The Department will monitor the progress of the program in accordance with grant requirements. The Department shall conduct site audits regularly and review business records pertaining to the awarded program and general accounting practices of the grant recipient.

001.07 Fund Disposal

The Department shall retain any funds not distributed to community-based organizations, community colleges, federally-recognized or state-recognized Indian tribes or nonprofit organizations for future distribution. These funds shall not be used for any purpose other than grant awards to providers.

The Principles of Effective Interventions

Research supports several principles for effective offender interventions. NIC highlights eight principles in its "Evidence-Based Policy and Practice" initiative. They are listed below in developmental sequence. Resources for implementing program interventions are also listed below.
Source: (http://nicic.gov/theprinciplesofeffectiveinterventions)

1. Assess Actuarial Risk/Needs - Assessing offenders' risk and needs (focusing on dynamic and static risk factors and criminogenic needs) at the individual and aggregate levels is essential for implementing the principles of best practice.

2. Enhance Intrinsic Motivation - Research strongly suggests that "motivational interviewing" techniques, rather than persuasion tactics, effectively enhance motivation for initiating and maintaining behavior changes.

3. Target Interventions
   1. Risk Principle - Prioritize supervision and treatment resources for higher risk offenders.
   2. Need Principle - Target interventions to criminogenic needs.
   3. Responsivity Principle - Be responsive to temperament, learning style, motivation, gender, and culture when assigning to programs.
   4. Dosage - Structure 40% to 70% of high-risk offenders' time for 3 to 9 months.
   5. Treatment Principle - Integrate treatment into full sentence/sanctions requirements.

4. Skill Train with Directed Practice - Provide evidence-based programming that emphasizes cognitive-behavior strategies and is delivered by well-trained staff.

5. Increase Positive Reinforcement - Apply four positive reinforcements for every one negative reinforcement for optimal behavior change results.

6. Engage Ongoing Support in Natural Communities - Realign and actively engage pro-social support for offenders in their communities for positive reinforcement of desired new behaviors.

7. Measure Relevant Processes/Practices - An accurate and detailed documentation of case information and staff performance, along with a formal and valid mechanism for measuring outcomes, is the foundation of evidence-based practice.

8. Provide Measurement Feedback - Providing feedback builds accountability and maintains integrity, ultimately improving outcomes.

Important information to consider from the research:

- Correctional staff members need to work with justice-involved persons to ensure they have the tools needed for success in the community.
- Correctional and community staff members must understand the importance of working with moderate- and high-risk individuals rather than low-risk individuals in order to demonstrate that their program can decrease recidivism.
- The most effective organizational-change strategies involve supervision and coaching of staff to reinforce the expected way of doing business—training alone is not sufficient.
Important Questions to Ask before You Launch Your Program:

- Who are you targeting for your program?
- Do the risks and needs of your target population match the services and supports you have funded through your grant or you are proposing to fund through the grant application?
- When and how are the risks and needs of your target population assessed?
- Following the risk/need assessment, are the services, supervision, and interventions recommended developed with the individual?
- Are these interventions based upon a systematic assessment of individual levels of risk and criminogenic needs?
- How are services coordinated for your target population as they move from the institution, to the community?
- How is programming that is begun in prison linked to the programming that the individual receives in the community?
- How are supervision and treatment resources prioritized for moderate and high risk individuals?
- Are your interventions cognitive-behavioral based?
- Have staff members been trained to appropriately use cognitive-behavioral interventions and strategies?
- What data is collected about individuals reentering communities?
- Do you collect case-level data on which of your program participants have: (1) housing, (2) employment, (3) substance abuse treatment [if necessary], (4) mental health treatment [if necessary], and (5) social support?

Theory of Change

A theory of change is essentially a comprehensive description and illustration of how and why a desired change is expected to happen in a particular context. In other words, a theory of change explains why your agency, in your community, will use a certain set of practices in order to produce a desired set of outcomes.

In developing a theory of change for your agency, you should:

- Identify long-term goals (e.g. stable employment, reduced recidivism)
- Work backwards from these long-term goals to identify the preconditions or requirements necessary to achieve those goals and explain why these preconditions are necessary and sufficient. (e.g. resources, staff training, staffing, office space)
- Identify your basic assumptions about the context and how they relate to your goals (e.g. types of clients, local job needs, local economy, existing re-entry resources)
- Identify the interventions that your initiative will perform to create your desired change. (e.g. education, job training, resume-building)
- Develop indicators to measure your outcomes to assess the performance of your initiative. (e.g. program completion, achievement of stable employment, avoidance of re-incarceration). These indicators allow you to determine program success

What Is the Value of Creating a Theory of Change (TOC)?
Community initiatives are sometimes planned without an explicit understanding of the early and intermediate steps required for long-term changes to occur; therefore, many assumptions about the change process need to be examined for program planning or evaluation planning to be most effective. A TOC creates an honest picture of the steps required to reach a goal. It provides an opportunity for stakeholders to assess what they can influence, what impact they can have, and whether it is realistic to expect to reach their goal with the time and resources they have available.
