All new course proposals and changes to the 'master' syllabus in the General Education curriculum, must be submitted for review and approval by the General Education Committee.

Courses should be submitted using the UNO Course Catalog Maintenance System \(CCMS\). University General Education courses must meet all of the Student Learning Outcomes (SLOs) for the designated area. Please review the student learning outcomes and the CCMS carefully before submitting a course.

Breakdown of SLOs in Humanities, Social Sciences, and Natural Sciences

- Students learning and understanding the concepts, theories, and methods central to the specific discipline being studied.
- Students learning how the concepts, theories, and methods have been used by others in the discipline being studied.
- Students learning the ways concepts, theories, and methods can be applied to the student's own understanding, as well as within and beyond the discipline being studied.
- Students learning how to apply the concepts and to communicate their understandings to others within the discipline being studied.

Keys to a Successful Course Proposal or Master Syllabus

- Follow all instructions provided on the new course proposal form.
- Complete all sections of the form thoroughly, yet explicitly.
- Pay careful attention to formatting (i.e. fonts, bullets, numbers, and tabs).
- Clearly state Student Learning Outcomes (SLOs) in terms of the student (e.g. "in this course students will demonstrate" or "students will analyze").
- List and explain assignments completely, but succinctly. The total value of all assignments should equal 100%.
- Bibliography should include references reflecting recent scholarship, unless older documents have historical value. A standard reference style (i.e. APA or MLS) should be used.
- College, School, or Department approval process must be followed, prior to promoting the course proposal or master syllabus to the General Education Committee.
- Please note: Department Chairs and Program Directors should read the course proposal carefully.
