Omeka.net ≠ Omeka.org

Omeka.net
- Web-based
- Hosted
- Limited plugins
- Limited customization
- Small learning curve

Omeka.org
- Maintain your own server
- Open source
- Great variety of plugins
- Very customizable
- Requires in-house experts
- Now in “Classic” or “Omeka S” flavors!

UNO’s Omeka.net Sites

- unomaha.omeka.net – used both for exhibits and as a digital repository for materials in University Archives and miscellaneous Special Collections
- hagel.omeka.net – used exclusively for exhibits of materials in the US Senator Chuck Hagel Archives
- queeromahaarchives.omeka.net – used exclusively as a digital repository for the Queer Omaha Archives. No exhibits (yet?)
- omahastories.omeka.net – used primarily as a digital repository for oral histories, but has a subject guide built using the exhibit framework
- And a few more sites that haven’t quite taken off yet.
Why We Use Omeka.net: Veterans in the U.S. Senator Chuck Hagel Archives

• Hagel served in Vietnam in 1967-1968. This informed countless decisions of his as U.S. Senator and U.S. Secretary of Defense.

• UNO consistently ranks among the top universities for veterans, active duty members, and their families.
Oral History

“Oral history is primary resource material created in an interview setting with a witness to or a participant in an event or a way of life for the purpose of preserving the information and making it available to others. The term refers both to the process and the product.”

Omaha Stories: Oral Histories of Omaha, Nebraska
- Native Americans
- European immigrants

Gay Freedom
A Case Study in Metadata Chaos
Different People, Different Workflows

- 2nd record: Omeka.net, created during digitization process, title “GAY FREEDOM, Issue #1.” Subject headings from ArchivesSpace collection-level record for Terry Sweeney and Pat Phalen Papers.
- 3rd record: WorldCat, cataloged as serial according to RDA, title matching masthead, “GAY FREEDOM: newsletter of the Omaha Gay Freedom League.” Subject headings for publication, not collection.
Moderately-Improved Metadata Workflow

1. Collection-level record, with no items, is created in ArchivesSpace
2. Item-level records are created in Omeka.net as items are digitized
3. Metadata from Omeka.net is
   a. Put into a spreadsheet
   b. Transformed into EAD
   c. Uploaded into ArchivesSpace
Thus creating the item-level records in ArchivesSpace which match the Omeka.net records.

Oh, but those subject headings, tho . . .
Omaha Stories Subject Headings

Step 1. Yumi emails Angela, requesting subject headings for items being digitized.
Step 2. Angela determines appropriate LCSH and adds to ArchivesSpace at the collection level.
Step 3. Yumi copies the subject headings from ArchivesSpace and applies them to the appropriate items in Omeka.net.
Step 4. After all items in the collection have been added to Omeka.net, Yumi sends Angela the spreadsheet with all the metadata.

(to be continued)
Omaha Stories Subject Headings

Step 5. Angela hammers the metadata into the EAD template. Not everything fits neatly. Some reformatting is required.

Step 6. The EAD is uploaded to ArchivesSpace, creating item-level records with linked subject and agent records.

Step 7. Manual cleanup, record transfers, de-duping, etc.

Step 8. Eat a well-earned chocolate chip cookie.

How does Omeka.net help us tell stories?

- Omeka supports several document types.
- Items tell many stories.
- Design options (themes) are easy to use (and easy on the eye).
- Maps! (and other plug-ins)
