Diversity Learning

A general education requires exposure to cultures and institutions around the world, as well as within one's own society. In order to promote intellectual flexibility, cultural understanding and informed citizenship.

UNO / General Education / Approved Courses / U.S. Diversity

Courses in this category focus on significant cultural, economic, historical, political, and/or sociological aspects of one or more underrepresented groups in the United States.

Diversity requirements, consisting of U.S. Diversity and Global Diversity coursework, comprise six hours of the general education curriculum. Students must complete three credit hours of coursework in U.S. Diversity, and three credit hours of coursework in Global Diversity to fulfill their diversity requirements.

Student Learning Outcomes

Successful students shall be able to do the following:

- demonstrate knowledge of the role and contributions of one or more underrepresented groups in the development of the United States;
- demonstrate specific knowledge of cultural, historical, social, economic, and/or political factors that shape aspects of one or more diverse groups;
- recognize and articulate differences, expectations, and/or challenges experienced by one or more underrepresented groups; and
- explain ways in which identity is developed and how it is transmitted within and by members of the group or groups.

Please see the table below for a list of U.S. Diversity courses that have been approved for inclusion in the general education curriculum.
