U.S. Inspects Three Soviet Vessels Leaving Cuba With Missiles

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP) — United States naval vessels patrolled off the Cuban port of Santiago to inspect three Soviet vessels leaving Cuba with missiles.

The U.S. Navy has been monitoring Soviet ships' movements off Cuba since the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan last week. The missiles on board the Soviet ships are believed to be part of the continuing buildup of Soviet forces in the region.

The Soviet vessels were reportedly carrying missiles from the Soviet Union to Cuba, where they will be deployed to support Cuba's military efforts against the invading Soviet troops in Afghanistan.

The U.S. Navy has deployed additional vessels to the region to monitor the situation and ensure the safety of American citizens and interests in the area.

The U.S. government has threatened military action against any further increases in Soviet military presence in the region.

De Gaulle Attacks French Parties

PARIS, Nov. 19 (AP) — French President Charles de Gaulle has attacked his country's political parties, saying they are too focused on local interests and not on national goals.

De Gaulle, who has been in office for over a decade, said the current political climate in France is characterized by a lack of direction and a failure to address major national issues.

He called for a renewal of the political system and a return to the principles of republicanism and national unity.

The French president has been a vocal critic of his own political party, the Union for French Democracy (UDF), which has been in power for several years.

ALL OVER THE WORLD

P R O G R A M M E

The Afghan Press Department has just announced that the radio stations in Afghanistan will be expanded and improved. This is part of the government's plan to increase the use of radio and television in the country. The radio stations in Kabul and Herat have already been expanded, and new stations are being planned for other major cities.

The number of listeners who tune in to radio has increased. There are plans to introduce new programs, including educational programs, to reach a wider audience.

The Afghan Press Department has issued a list of stations that will be expanded and improved. These include:

- Kabul Radio Station
- Herat Radio Station
- Kandahar Radio Station
- Bamiyan Radio Station

The stations will be equipped with modern technology to improve the quality of the programs. The Afghan Press Department also plans to recruit new staff to handle the increased workload.

The expansion of radio and television in Afghanistan is part of the government's efforts to modernize the country. The Afghan people are increasingly turning to these mediums as sources of information and entertainment.
