ROKE, Jan. 6. (AP) — An Artile Mora, Italian Foreign minister, will continue to press
for Britain and Ireland's admission to the six-member European Economic Community.

The delay in the declaration,
which was expected today, will not affect Rome's relations with the other member states in the Community.

The Italian Foreign Minister, speaking at a press conference today, said that Italy will not be able to attend the meeting of the Community's ministers on Monday because of the death of a prominent Italian statesman, Giovanni Agnelli.

But Italy will continue to attend Community meetings
as a guest, he said.

THE MANIFOLD PROBLEMS OF MACMILLAN'S GOVERNMENT

Mr. Harold Macmillan, who enters his seventh year as Prime Minister this month, is facing a host of problems, some of which are urgent, such as the 1961 Budget, while others are potential, such as the soon-to-be-elected House of Commons. The young and growing nation is now in the next great phase of development, and many problems are coming up that will require the Prime Minister's attention.

For example, the Prime Minister is about to take a decision on the future of the North Sea oil. The North Sea oil is a major problem for the government, as it represents a large source of revenue. The Prime Minister is also considering the future of the nuclear power industry, which is facing some difficulties. The government is also considering the future of the economy, with a focus on inflation and unemployment.

The government is also facing some external problems, such as the situation in the Middle East, where the government is working to maintain peace. The government is also considering the future of the Commonwealth, with a focus on the relationship with India.

The government is also facing some internal problems, such as the situation in Northern Ireland, where the government is working to maintain peace. The government is also considering the future of the welfare system, with a focus on the cost of living.

The government is also facing some environmental problems, such as the situation in the North Sea, where the government is working to maintain a healthy ecosystem. The government is also considering the future of the energy sector, with a focus on renewable energy.

The government is also facing some social problems, such as the situation in the elderly, where the government is working to maintain a healthy elderly population. The government is also considering the future of the education system, with a focus on the quality of education.

The government is also facing some economic problems, such as the situation in the currency, where the government is working to maintain a stable currency. The government is also considering the future of the trade, with a focus on the exchange rate.

The government is also facing some political problems, such as the situation in the Labour Party, where the government is working to maintain a stable government. The government is also considering the future of the party, with a focus on the leadership.

The government is also facing some international problems, such as the situation in the Middle East, where the government is working to maintain peace. The government is also considering the future of the Commonwealth, with a focus on the relationship with India.

The government is also facing some domestic problems, such as the situation in Northern Ireland, where the government is working to maintain peace. The government is also considering the future of the welfare system, with a focus on the cost of living.

Kutush's Visit To Turkey Described as "Fateful"

ROUMANIA, Jan. 5 (Reuters) - The President's official visit to Turkey has aroused widespread interest in Bucharest, where many are little aware of the opportunity they will have to see the President.

President Ion Gheorghe Maurer of Rumania, however, is expected to return to Bucharest at the end of January with a Russian visit to follow later in the month.

The most immediate of these is that the President will meet with President M. Metaxas of Greece, and that he will also meet with other political leaders.

Dr. Kutush's party includes:

* The Prime Minister, Mr. Ioannis Metaxas
* The Foreign Minister, Mr. Theodoros Pangalos
* The Finance Minister, Mr. Konstantinos Karamanlis

A group photo of President Kutush and the Greek leaders is expected to be released in the coming days.
