Teaching Of Science: Faculty's Progress

By REBECCA BRENNER

The Faculty of Science at Kabul University has been making steady progress in recent years. This is evident from the increased enrollment in science courses, the establishment of new laboratories, and the introduction of modern teaching methods. The faculty has also been successful in acquiring new equipment and resources, which has enhanced the quality of education provided to students.

In view of the expansion of the science education and the need for modernizing the curriculum, the Faculty of Science has initiated a number of initiatives to meet the needs of secondary education and higher education. The faculty has also made efforts to strengthen the linkages between science education and the national economy, aiming to contribute to the development of the country.

New Era Of Franco-Spanish Relations Begins

For the past few years, Franco-Spanish relations have been under strain due to the economic sanctions imposed by Spain on France for its support of Morocco. However, recent developments have brought hope for a new era of cooperation between the two countries.

The Madrid government has recently announced its intention to lift the economic sanctions, and this move has been welcomed by the French government. It is expected that the lifting of sanctions will pave the way for closer economic and cultural relations between France and Spain.

In order to strengthen Franco-Spanish relations, both countries have decided to expand their bilateral agreements in various fields, including education, tourism, and trade. These efforts are expected to result in increased economic exchanges and cultural exchanges between France and Spain.

American Singer

Infringement Copyright

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The British Court of Appeal yesterday ordered the French singer, Mme. Raynaud, to pay damages to the American singer, Mme. Steinberg, for infringing the copyright of Steinberg's song, "The English Road." The court ruled that the French singer had violated the copyright by performing the song in public without permission.

It is understood that the French singer had performed the song in a number of places without seeking permission from the American singer. The court's decision has set a precedent for the protection of copyright in the United Kingdom.
