CRISIS BREWING OVER MALAYA FEDERATION

UNANS!T will be the key to the future of South-East Asia. In the South-East Asian region, the lack of understanding between different cultures and races poses a significant challenge. The crisis brewing over the Federation of Malaysia could lead to a new division between the various states. The Federation was formed in 1963, but the relationship between the states in the Federation has been strained, especially between the Malay states and the non-Malay states. The issue of language and cultural differences has been a major point of contention.

Dr. Dato' Musa, the akhir of the Federation, has called for a peaceful resolution to the crisis. He believes that the Federation should be based on a common understanding and respect for each other's cultures.

The crisis brewing over the Federation is a challenge for the leadership of the Federation. The government should take a more active role in resolving the crisis and ensuring the stability of the Federation.
