U.S.S.R. Develops Vaccine Sprayed By Airplane

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 24, (AP).—A California Civil Defence Official said on Saturday that Soviet Union has a vaccine which, sprayed from an airplane, can protect large populations against four diseases.

Dr. Coggin said the vaccine incorporates bacteria which the Soviet Union believes to be the majority of the United State's secret biological-warfare programs.

Dr. Coggin spoke to a medical disaster preparedness meeting held in conjunction with the annual convention of the California Medical Association.

He is medical director of the California disaster office.

Dr. Coggin said the immunity would come from breathing a spray containing the germs of the disease. He declined to tell newsmen the names of the diseases. Reporters were barred of the session. But Dr. Coggin, former chief of U.S. Chemical and Biological warfare group, spoke to them during a subsequent panel discussion.

He didn't say where he obtained his information.

Deteriorating Health Of Pakhtunistani Leaders In Pakistan Jails

UNITED NATIONS, Mar. 24.—Mr. Joshua Nkomo, who said on Saturday he did not know whether he would arrest the guerrillas if he went back to Southern Rhodesia after testifying here about the situation at home.

Mr. Nkomo, the President of Southern Rhodesia's United African Party and its Deputy Prime Minister for Finance, said he was "quite hopeful" he could speak Monday before the United Nations Special Committee on Colonialism and the assembly of N.U.C. Committee on decolonization and describe "the latest developments in the situation at home."

He said he telephoned the Committee Chairman, Mr. C. Gomes, of Malawi, after arriving in New York city late Friday.

He also said he arranged to speak to the African-African group of 58 U.N. delegations on Tuesday by telephoning the group Chairman, Chief Adebo of Nigeria.

Mr. Nkomo, talking with a U.N. correspondent by telephone from his New York hotel, declined to disclose what he said to the delegates. But he said his party's policy was to get Britain to achieve a constitutional system of government by unconstitutions means.

The new legislation, which Mr. Nkomo described, makes any Southern Rhodesian resident liable to up to 20 years imprisonment "who either within or outside Southern Rhodesia...involves the killing of any person or group or body."

In attempting to coerce, over-thow or take over the government by unconstitutional means, "he was constrained to use the term 'constitutional means.'"

Mr. Nkomo went on, "is defined as any process not provided for in the constitution, and so the term can cover 'coming to the United Nations' and 'going to the British Government and requesting that the constitution be abrogated.'"

Mr. Nkomo said he would leave for home late next week. He is due in Magistrate's court at Ru-

While Mr. Nkomo said the Southern Rhodesian legislative assembly last month adopted a "terrible legislation" that could be read to outlaw "coming to the United Nations" or "going to the British Government and requesting that the constitution be abrogated."

Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs must agree to this legislation, Mr. Nkomo explained, because "the Governor always agrees to what the parliament says—he is supposed to agree."

Barkul, Mar. 24. A report from Peshawar in Central Occupied Pakhtunistan says that Mr. Hameed Gul Hameed Khalil, the prominent young Pakhtunistani poet, working with Hafiz Khanuddin, a ranking leader of the Khojar Khalid Khatami Party, and Mr. Mahmood Khan, a member of the Khojar Khalid Khatami Party, is seriously ill in Rawalpindi.

The people of Occupied Pakhtunistan are reported to be expressing grave concern over this rumor. Although the relatives of the prisoners have approached the Pakistani authorities with a request either to provide medical treatment for them or allow the prisoners to treat them at their own expense, the government of Pakistan refused to accept their suggestions and the life of these Pakhtunistani patriots is now in great danger.
