WE LIVE IN INTERNATIONAL ERA, SAYS PRESIDENT KENNEDY

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 22, 1961 (UPI)-President John F. Kennedy said here today that the United States and the Soviet Union are living in an international era and that the whole world is being affected by the Cold War.

This is the first time that President Kennedy has made such a statement in recent years.

In a speech to the American University, he said that the world is divided into two blocs and that the United States and the Soviet Union are the two major powers.

He also said that the two nations are engaged in a struggle for the future of mankind.

President Kennedy said that the United States and the Soviet Union are engaged in a struggle for the future of mankind.

Although the United States and the Soviet Union are divided by ideological differences, he said, they have a common interest in world peace and security.

The President said that the United States and the Soviet Union must work together to achieve these goals.

He called for a new kind of internationalism, in which nations of the world cooperate to solve common problems.
