AMENDING ELECTORAL LAW: THE LANGUAGE
OF SUFFRAGE

By: WASHINGTON

October 20, 1965

So far I have written two articles on the main purpose of this bill. On the one hand we should not encourage discrimination in the language of suffrage, and we should be careful to ensure that the language used is broad enough to include all citizens without excluding any. On the other hand, it is important that the bill not be too broad, as it would lead to a lack of control over the language used.

The bill is currently being considered in a meeting which is expected to pass it. The sponsor of the bill is working on refining the language to make it more inclusive and to ensure that it is not too broad.

The current language of suffrage is not effective in ensuring that all citizens have the right to vote. This is why the bill is being amended. The bill aims to ensure that the language used is broad enough to include all citizens without excluding any.

The bill is expected to pass in the meeting where it is currently being considered. The sponsor of the bill is working on refining the language to make it more inclusive and to ensure that it is not too broad.

LOW PER-CAPITA INCOME NATIONS RECEIVE LESS PER-CAPITA AID
Ghana's Speech Before Second Committee
OF U.N. General Assembly

The growth and expectation that aid to less developed countries will continue on the same scale is an important step forward for our country. But we must also be careful to ensure that the aid we provide is effective in promoting economic and social development.

The report adds that the United States is committed to continue its aid programs to less developed countries. The U.S. will continue to support the U.N. efforts in promoting economic and social development.
