April 2022

In the Jam Jar

William L. Blizek

University of Nebraska at Omaha, wblizek@unomaha.edu

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.unomaha.edu/jrf>

Part of the Film and Media Studies Commons

Recommended Citation

Blizek, William L. (2022) "In the Jam Jar," Journal of Religion & Film: Vol. 26 : Iss. 1 , Article 41.

DOI: <https://doi.org/10.32873/uno.dc.jrf.26.01.031>

Available at: <https://digitalcommons.unomaha.edu/jrf/vol26/iss1/41>

This Slamdance Film Festival Review is brought to you for free and open access by DigitalCommons@UNO. It has been accepted for inclusion in Journal of Religion & Film by an authorized editor of DigitalCommons@UNO. For more information, please contact unodigitalcommons@unomaha.edu.

In the Jam Jar

Abstract

This is a film review of In the Jam Jar (2022), directed by Colin Nixon.

Keywords

Death, Mourning

Creative Commons License

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 License.

Author Notes

William Blizek is the Founding Editor of the Journal of Religion and Film, and is Emeritus Professor of Philosophy and Religion at the University of Nebraska at Omaha. He is also the editor of the Continuum Companion to Religion and Film (2009).

In the Jam Jar (2022), dir. Colin Nixon

This is a very simple film, but a very powerful film at the same time. At the beginning of the film, we see Joan putting jam in a jar to preserve it. In voice over, she tells her son, Danny, that she “has filled as many jars as I could before heading to the seniors’ home, so you’ll know I’m still thinking of you.” For the first part of the film, Joan continues this conversation until she dies.

In the second part of the film, Danny carries on a conversation with his deceased mother. At the end of the film, Danny says, “Even now you still feel so close,” as he opens one of the jars of jam.

I have not found anything to say about this film that would be helpful in understanding it. This is a film to be experienced, not analyzed, and I strongly encourage you to see it