Training Teachers Good Community Leaders

The present curriculum of the Primary Teachers' Training School (the Normal School as it may be called) includes English, Persian, English, mathematics, geography and history, drawing and sculpture, and agricultural education and physical training.

The second seminar is devoted to practical teaching, public administration, and the Ministry of Education's policy for the development of education in the country. It is held in the capital city of Kabul and is open to all primary school teachers, including those from the provinces.

Although the first seminar for all primary school teachers was held in 1978, the second seminar has been held every two years since then. The seminar covers a wide range of topics, from educational theory to practical issues faced by primary school teachers in their daily work. The seminar is a platform for teachers to share their experiences, discuss challenges, and brainstorm solutions to improve the quality of education in Afghanistan.

The seminar also provides an opportunity for teachers to network with their colleagues from different parts of the country. It is a chance for them to learn from each other and gain insight into the different teaching methods and strategies used in various regions.

The seminar is not only a training activity but also a means to foster a sense of community among teachers. It helps create a supportive environment where teachers feel empowered to discuss their experiences and challenges openly.

In conclusion, the Primary Teachers' Training School (Normal School) plays a crucial role in the development of education in Afghanistan. The seminars held every two years are instrumental in providing teachers with the knowledge and skills they need to improve their teaching methods and enhance the quality of education in the country.

The United States plans to orbit its first "Television" satellite tomorrow in a revolutionary attempt to link America, Europe with direct radio and television broadcasts through a "switchboard" hanging in space.

Success of the 37th experimental model will give all citizens of present and future generations the chance to view the first live television images simultaneously relayed within a week.

"Television" will officially open the era of global communication with "since" earth satellites. The programs and films have the unprecedented advantage of reaching every individual in his own home, without incurring the costs of a network of ground stations, a third of the world apart.

Ball Television Laboratories built the complex little satellite.

Scientists will try to put the test-satellite into orbit early tomorrow morning. If all goes well, "Television", an abbreviation of the phrase "Telephone Satellite" will orbit the earth's surface, and will be carried by rockets from Tokyo, a spaceport near space from France as a propaganda broadcast into South America, by 1963 or 1966.

Basically, the first "Television" will carry an elaborate device which will be able to receive signals from earth, amplify them and return them back again. The synchronous orbits, has to be the earth's revolution, is the basis for ground stations a third of the world apart.
