Encouragement To Teachers In Afghanistan

By Ibrahim Ismail

The situation in Afghanistan, in which the teaching profession is totally at the mercy of the government, has been described by teachers as a miserable one. The teachers are paid extremely low salaries and are often denied the basic necessities of life. The education system is considered to be extremely poor and lacking in resources.

The government has been criticized for its lack of commitment towards improving the education system. The teachers' union has called for a strike in protest against the government's failure to address the concerns of the teaching profession.

The situation is further exacerbated by the lack of resources and infrastructure. Many schools do not have proper facilities and infrastructure, and the teaching materials and textbooks are often outdated and inadequate.

The government needs to take urgent measures to improve the education system and address the concerns of the teaching profession. The teachers' union has called for a strike in protest against the government's failure to address the concerns of the teaching profession.

A OS Commando Attacks On Algiers Shops

ALGIERS, Mar. 16, (Reuters)—The OS Commando Army yesterday stepped up its intimidation on the eve of the expected Algerian cease-fire with commando attacks on seven Algerian shop-owners—alleged to be sending medical supplies to the nationalists.

The commandos killed five Moslem demonstrators and injured two others.

The operation is the first since the commandos. On March 11, Algeria declared a cease-fire and the commando's position is unclear.

Nine men and seven women were also wounded.

The commandos have been accused of using the cease-fire as an excuse to attack the shop-owners.
