At Afghanistan's Progress During The First Plan

THE PRESS AND RADIO

At A GLANCE

The Daily Asia Times on April 1, 1992, the first day of the Afghan year, announced that the country was moving towards a new era of development and prosperity. The government had embarked on a comprehensive reform program aimed at modernizing the economy and improving the standard of living for its citizens.

Consolidated funds earmarked for the First Five-Year Plan have been transferred to public administration to be used for the development of the country. The government is committed to implementing the plan with full force and determination.

A striking feature of public revenue in recent years is the very high increase in tax revenue. This is due largely to the effective implementation of tax laws and the increase in industrial production. The budgetary expenditures are expected to increase further as the government focuses on economic growth.

The economic situation is expected to improve further as the government implements the First Five-Year Plan. The government has also announced plans to introduce a new currency system to stabilize the economy.
