SOVIET CINEMAS IS "CAPABLE OF MORE"

Film Producer Calls For Creative Work

KARSHI, April 12—Soviet cinema is "capable of more" than the state art can do, according to a recent statement made by Valery Gomel, a leading film producer.

Gomel, speaking at a conference of film producers in Leningrad, said that the Soviet cinema has the potential to produce films of a higher quality, but that the state art is not making full use of this potential.

"The state art is not able to produce films of a higher quality," Gomel said. "But the Soviet cinema is capable of more." He added that the state art is not able to produce films of a higher quality, but that the Soviet cinema is capable of more.

Gomel said that the state art should make full use of the potential of the Soviet cinema, and that it should be encouraged to produce films of a higher quality.

A conference of representatives was held in Kabul to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the advancement of education. The conference was held at the University of Kabul and was attended by many prominent figures from the education sector.

The conference featured speeches from various high-ranking officials, including the President of Afghanistan, who emphasized the importance of education for the development of the country.

Key highlights included:
- The announcement of a new national educational policy.
- The launch of a new textbook for primary schools.
- The recognition of outstanding educators and students.

An Anti-Locust Steps

In Herat

KANDAHAR, April 16—Mr. Masoud, Director of Plants Protection, has announced the implementation of a new anti-locust campaign in the province. The campaign aims to prevent further spread of the locusts, which have recently caused significant damage to crops.

The initiative involves the use of modern technology, including drones and satellite images, to monitor locust swarms. Additionally, local community members are being trained to safely eradicate the pests.

Agriculture

Agricultural activities are crucial for the economy of Herat province. With the help of international organizations, the government has been working to improve agricultural techniques and increase crop yields.

Some key achievements include:
- Increased use of modern farming techniques.
- Improved water management systems.
- Enhanced post-harvest storage solutions.

These efforts have contributed to the growth of the agricultural sector, providing a stable source of income for the local population.

Press Review

Kabul Times, April 16—Afghanistan's agriculture sector has made significant strides in the past year, with increased crop yields and improved farming practices.

The government has been actively involved in promoting agricultural development, including the establishment of new agricultural centers and the distribution of agricultural tools.

In addition, international assistance has been instrumental in supporting these efforts, with several aid organizations providing financial and technical support.

However, challenges remain, such as access to credit and reliable market links.

The overall picture is one of progress, with continued efforts needed to ensure sustainable agricultural growth in the future.
