SHAH KABUL MOUNTAIN

By A. A. KOREN

The city of Kabul lies between sea and land. In the Central Asia, Programmes, and also in Delhi, two small mountain ranges can be seen on the horizon. 100,000 years ago, the city was a small settlement and the mountains were higher. The city of Kabul was once a capital of the Kushan dynasty. Babur, the founder of the Afghan Empire, was born in Kabul. The city was also the capital of the Ghurids and the Mamluks.

In the early days, Kabul was known as Shah, a term used to describe any king or ruler. In the 19th century, the city became known as Kabul.

The city is a strategic location, lying at the crossroads of several important trade routes.

The city is home to several important institutions, including the Kabul University, which is the oldest university in Afghanistan.

The city is also known for its beautiful architecture, including the old city walls and the minarets of the Friday Mosque.
