CRIME IN BEMIS PARK:
A VICTIMIZATION SURVEY

December, 1981
INTRODUCTION

The Bemis Park Crime Survey was devised to give the residents of Bemis Park systematic information on the extent of crime and victimization in their neighborhood. The Bemis Park Neighborhood Association requested this survey, and the residents were active participants in it.

UNO graduate students received credit through their participation in the study for a Criminal Justice Planning Class. The first two meetings were held to discuss purpose and methodology, and both groups then participated in a short interview training session. The final meeting was arranged to allow the students to explain the findings of the study to the Bemis Park Residents.
METHODOLOGY

The National Crime Survey was the method used in evaluating the results of the Bemis Park Crime Survey. The National Crime Survey measures the extent to which residents age 12 and over, households, and commercial establishments were victimized by selected crimes, whether completed or attempted.¹

The NCS interviews all household members individually. The Bemis Park Crime Survey was modified in that one adult member of the household responded to all questions, rather than the NCS approach of asking each person age 12 and over to respond individually. This was found to work effectively in Bemis Park since it was a smaller sample.

The questions asked in the Bemis Park Crime Survey were identical to the NCS, with the exception of the one-respondent aspect. The first 18 questions refer to the incidence of crime and are comparable to the NCS.

A random sample of all households within the Bemis Park area (Cuming to Hamilton, 33rd to 40th Streets) was studied. In gathering information for the survey a list of household addresses was compiled. Each single family household was assigned an identification number 1 to 201. Each apartment unit was assigned a separate number from 1 to 88. A random numbers table was used to select 100 households and 25 apartments or a total sample of 125.

Twelve teams consisting of UNO graduate students and Bemis Park residents were trained to conduct the survey.
THE GEOGRAPHIC DISPERSION OF THE SAMPLE

Of the 125 households in the sample, 41 or 33 percent were located west of 36th Street, while 84 or 67 percent were located to the east.

Of the original sample of 125, 100 surveys or 80 percent were completed; 11 individuals refused to interviewed, six properties were vacant and eight households could not be reached by the interviewers. If the response rate is adjusted to account for the six vacant properties an 84 percent completion rate is derived.

Of the 100 households surveyed 67 percent reported at least one incident of crime, and 33 percent did not report an incident of crime within the last year. The dividing link between the east and west sections of the survey area was established at 36th Street and more than twice as many (86 percent) lived to the east. (See Map 2.)

Myrtle, 36th Street, and Hawthorne Streets were used as a dividing line to separate the survey area into north and south sections. (See Map 2.) Seventy-five households of the original 125 fell within the north section while 50 were located in the south. Of those in the south, 82 percent responded to the survey compared to 78 percent in the north. Of the 100 households surveyed, 59 percent were located in the north and 41 percent in the south.

In comparing victims with non-victims in the east area where 68 surveys were completed, 42 households or 62 percent answered yes to at least one of the questions referring to crime. Twenty-six or 38 percent had no knowledge of or contact with a criminal incident in the past year. In the west, of the 32 households responding to the survey, 25 or 78 percent had contact with crime and seven or 22 percent did not.
Of the 59 households responding in the north, 36 or 61 percent had some contact with crime while 23 or 39 percent did not report an incident within the last year. In the south, of the 41 households responding to the survey, 31 or 76 percent had some contact with crime, and 10 or 24 percent did not. The inability to distinguish certain areas, north, south, east, or west, as being more or less subject to crime, provides a basis for organizing and implementing a crime prevention program for the entire area and not just a specific portion of the area.

THE INCIDENCE OF CRIME IN BEMIS PARK

Table 1 presents the total number of reported incidents. A total of 141 incidents was reported for the 100 households. Each incident with the total number of times it occurred is shown in this table. For example, the attempt or actual theft of part of a car was reported 28 separate times, with some respondents reporting that this occurred three times. The most frequently reported incidents were: the attempt or actual theft of part of a car (n=28), the theft of an item from the outside of a home (n=19), and theft from a residence while the owner was away from the home (n=18). On the other hand, no incidents were reported that would indicate that an attempt or actual incident of attacking a member of the household occurred.

The least frequently reported incidents were: an attempt or actual attack on household member (n=0), taking an item from a person by the use of force or threat (n=1), pocket picking/purse snatching (n=2), and the attacking of a member of the household with a knife, gun, or some other weapon (n=2). The remaining incidents were: something stolen from a car (n=5), attempted theft (n=5), the attempt or actual theft of a car (n=5), threat with a weapon (n=6), attempt to rob (n=7), the threat to be beaten up (n=8), something else stolen from a member of household (n=8), residence broken into (n=10), attempt to break into residence (n=11). The most frequently reported crimes were property crimes, and the least frequently reported crimes were property crimes, and the least frequently reported were crimes against the person.

Table 2 is based upon "recent incidents" and the number of times each incident occurred. Of the 141 total incidents reported, 106 of those were "recent incidents," and all future data are based on the 106 unless otherwise noted. For example, the attempt or actual theft of part of a car, was reported as a one time occurrence in 15 instances. In two cases, each person reported this twice, and three persons reported this happened three times. Thus, the total equals 28.

other months were: December (n=10), June (n=9), November (n=8), March (n=6), September (n=4), October (n=4), May (n=3), and April (n=1).

Attempting or actual breaking into a home occurred most frequently in January and February. An explanation might be that these months are close to the holidays and are colder months. The attempt or actual theft of part of a car and the theft of an item from outside of the home were reported most frequently in July and August. The warmer weather and people leaving bicycles, gardening tools, and barbecue grills outside might contribute to this finding. Crime has been found to be seasonal.

Table 4 presents the most recent incidents by the day of the week they occurred. No overall significant pattern was found. The day of the week the incident occurred could not be reported by 41 respondents. The most frequent response was Saturday (n=19). The other days reported were: Wednesday (n=10), Thursday (n=19), Friday (n=9), Monday (n=8), Tuesday (n=6), and Sunday (n=4). This is not a pattern which would show all or a large number of incidents occurring on the same day.

Table 5 presents the most recent incidents by the time they occurred. Thirty-five reported incidents occurred between 6:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m., and 59 reported incidents occurred between 6:00 p.m. and 6:00 a.m. Little difference was found between incidents, although attempt or actual theft of part of a car and the theft of outside items happened more frequently between 6:00 p.m. and 6:00 a.m.

Findings from the National Crime Survey can be used to compare the Bemis Park Crime Survey with national statistics. The National Crime Survey has been used since 1973 to collect data from households concerning crime. Six crimes are measured in the NCS: rape, robbery, assault, Assault is divided into simple and aggravated. For the purpose of the survey, all incidents of assault, both simple and aggravated, are grouped into the assault category. Assault is a physical attack with a weapon or one that results in serious bodily injury, and assault occurs when a physical attack produces minor injury or when injury is only threatened. A total of 22 assaults was reported.

Household burglary involves unlawful entry with or without force, usually but not necessarily to commit a theft. The unlawful entry aspect of this definition is of crucial importance. The person must not have the right to be in the home of the victim. A total of 21 burglaries was reported.

Personal and household larceny both cover the taking of property without force. The distinction between personal and household larceny is based upon where the item was stolen—whether it was taken from a person without force (personal larceny) or from a home (household larceny). Larceny was the most frequently reported crime. Personal larceny was reported 48 times, and household larceny 37 times.

Motor vehicle theft is the stealing or unlawful use of a motor vehicle. Motor vehicle theft occurred five times. This was the least frequently reported crime.

Table 7 presents the national statistics on victimization as compared to the findings in Bemis Park. Twenty percent of the nation's households were victimized in 1980. Fifty-seven percent of the 100 households were victimized in Bemis Park. Bemis Park statistics showed a higher percentage of victimization for every crime but rape. Robbery showed a 4.5 percent higher victimization rate than the national statistics. The remaining

Crime Prevention Practices

The Bemis Park Crime Victimization Survey contained three questions involving 25 items about crime prevention measures practiced in the neighborhood. These items can be condensed into three categories:

1) Prevention during long-term absence
2) Prevention during short-term absence
3) On-going prevention.

Information from the survey indicated that 98 percent of the surveyed would take some type of special precautions when leaving their homes for an extended period of time. The most frequently mentioned precaution was that they would have a neighbor or relative watch the property. Lights or radios were left on in their homes by 31 percent. The remaining items listed ranged from 14 to 24 percent in frequency. Most of the people surveyed used two or more precautions while some listed five or more.

*NOTE: 98% of those surveyed would take special precautions during a long-term absence.

With regard to short term absences from the home, 95 percent of the respondents reported that they always or usually locked their doors and windows. Another 81 percent indicated that they left lights on either inside or outside their homes. Likewise, 62 percent of those surveyed reported locking their doors when they were at home.

Thirty seven percent reported using some on-going crime prevention practices such as installing extra locks, lights, or bars on basement windows, etc. Approximately 34 percent of the residents reported possessing a firearm for purposes of protection. This figure parallels that reported in national crime surveys. Although personal property insurance certainly does not prevent crime, it does, however, show that the individual is crime conscious, and in the event of loss all or most of the value of stolen property can be removed. In Bemis Park 66 percent of the respondents reported having such insurance. Aside from homeowners, renters should be aware that Although no profile of the type of person most likely to be victimized was established, the types of crime most likely to be encountered were identified in this survey. Little threat of violent crime was apparent, but the likelihood of being a victim of personal larceny was quite high. Since the most frequent thefts were unsecured items or theft from unattended vehicles, this may be an area which warrants more attention in terms of crime prevention practices. The survey could not show any significant correlation between the prevention techniques now being practiced and the likelihood of becoming victimized. Judging from the information gathered in this survey, the over-all impression is that the Bemis Park residents are, in fact, security conscious in their homes.

ATTITUDES TOWARD CRIME IN BEMIS PARK

In general, Bemis Park residents did not view crime as a serious problem. Altogether, 28 percent of the survey population described crime as an above average and serious problem, 63 percent viewed crime as an average and less than average problem, and 3 percent viewed crime as no problem.

Of the people surveyed, 44 percent stated that they felt safe walking alone in their neighborhood at night while only 31 percent responded that they would feel safe walking alone in another neighborhood at night. Thus, although most people in Bemis Park viewed crime in their neighborhood as an "average problem," it was still perceived as being a significant enough threat to cause fear and possibly alter basic behavior patterns such as walking at night.

Victims' Attitudes Toward the Police

The vast majority (76 percent) of the victims that reported an incident viewed the police as being cooperative and helpful. However, approximately 48 percent of the victims did not report the incident to the police. This could indicate, in part, a negative view of police, although various contaminating variables, such as type of crime committed, offender/victim relationship, and no insurance could attribute to the non-reports. The vast majority (79 percent) of the victims reported that the crime had not been solved. This indicates the victims' perceptions of police cooperativeness and helpfulness was not related to having actual crimes solved.

Implication for Crime Prevention

The victimization data for Bemis Park indicates that most illegal acts are relatively minor crimes against property. Therefore, crime prevention programs should be focused in this direction. The citizens of Bemis Park should consider the development of crime prevention programs that minimize the opportunities for criminal activities.

Programs aimed at reminding residents to lock up valuables can be effective for crime prevention in Bemis Park. The residents reported the theft of such items as bicycles, gardening tools, and barbecue grills. In many instances, these items are accidentally left out, making theft easier. With the help of residents reminding their neighbors of property left unattended, the rate of crimes involving the theft of property can be lowered. Simple measures such as these are likely to have just as great an impact as more elaborate and complex crime prevention programs.
