Thant May Reveal New Plan To End Katanga's Secession This Week

The United Nations Secretary-General, U Thant, may in the next few weeks disclose a secret plan for ending the Katanga secession, according to sources here. Mr. Thant, who is in New York for the United Nations General Assembly, is understood to have been expressing his views on the Katanga situation to American and Western leaders... "Several times Thant has said that some day he would have to make a statement on the Katanga situation," a Western diplomat said. "Thant is expected to visit the United States next week to discuss the matter with American leaders."

Katanga's Premier, Dr. Joseph Kasavubu, recently revealed that he was in contact with Thant, who also is reported to have visited the Katanga capital, Katanga, in the past week... "We are in close contact with Thant and have been discussing the situation with him," Kasavubu said. The Premier has been in touch with Thant "at least twice in the past week," according to a source in the Katanga government...

Delegates have been discussing a plan which would end the Katanga secession, according to the source... "The Katanga government will continue to discuss the matter with Thant," the source said. "We want to resolve the crisis and bring peace to the Katanga region."

The Katanga government has been in contact with United Nations officials regarding the secession crisis. Thant has been in contact with the Katanga government and has visited the region. The United Nations has been trying to mediate the conflict between the Katanga government and the Katanga people. Thant has been working to find a solution to the crisis and bring peace to the region.

The Katanga government has been in contact with the United Nations and other international organizations regarding the secession crisis. Thant has been working to find a solution to the crisis and bring peace to the region. The United Nations has been trying to mediate the conflict between the Katanga government and the Katanga people.
KABUL TIMES

CHINESE TRADE MINISTER TO VISIT PAKISTAN

REUTERS, KABUL (AP)—Mr. Liu Shao-cheng, the Chinese trade minister, arrived in Islamabad on Monday evening for talks with his Pakistani counterpart on trade and economic issues.

The visit comes as the two countries seek to strengthen economic ties and reduce trade imbalances. Liu is expected to discuss ways to increase exports from China to Pakistan and to explore new avenues for investment.

e more details...

KABUL TIMES

KRUSHCHUEV OUTLINES PLANS TO MAKE SOVIET ECONOMY EFFICIENT

MOSCOW, Nov. 30 (Reuters)—Mr. Khrushchev told editors of state newspapers yesterday they should be prepared to learn what was "profitable and good" from the capitalist world. He said this in the opening address of the Communist Party Central Committee, as he outlined plans to make the economy more efficient. Khrushchev's statements were met with a round of applause from the delegates.

In the past, he said, the country's industrial capabilities had not been fully realized and the economy was being "drained" by an overly ambitious program of social welfare. He gave the example of building houses in Moscow to illustrate how a task that could have been done in one week was being spread over a year. He warned that such mistakes should not be repeated.

Stevenson's

TALK WITH THANT

ON CONGO ISSUE

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (Reuters)—Mr. Khrushchev met yesterday with Mr. U Thant, the United Nations secretary general, at the United Nations headquarters. The meeting centered on the Congo crisis, with Khrushchev calling for a solution through the United Nations and urging the United States to cooperate.

"It is very important for the United Nations to take the initiative in the Congo problem," Khrushchev said. "We are ready to support the United Nations in its efforts to solve the crisis." He added that the United States should support the United Nations in its efforts to find a peaceful solution to the Congo crisis.

The United Nations had recently announced a peacekeeping force for the Congo, but the United States had refused to participate. Khrushchev called on the United States to reconsider its position.

AFGHANISTAN SAYS SUPPLY OF AID TO HUTU ETHNIC GROUPS CONTINUES

KABUL, Nov. 28 (Reuters)—Afghanistan said yesterday that the supply of aid to the Hutu ethnic group in Tanzania continues despite reports that aid to the group has been stopped.

"We have no information that aid to the Hutu group has been stopped," an Afghan foreign ministry official said. "We are still supplying aid to the group, as we have always done," the official added.

The supply of aid to the Hutu group in Tanzania has been a source of tension between Tanzania and several Western countries, particularly the United States.

EAGLE-TESTED M.C.C. ATOS AIRMEN

KABUL, Nov. 27 (Reuters)—Airmen from the United States Air Force have completed a test of the Eagle, a new military aircraft designed for the Afghan Air Force.

The test was conducted at the Kabul International Airport, and the airmen were able to demonstrate the aircraft's capabilities in various flight conditions.

The Eagle is designed to provide the Afghan Air Force with a modern and effective combat aircraft.

AFGHANISTAN SAYS JAPAN TALKS OF RISK OF ONLINE FRAUD

KABUL, Nov. 26 (Reuters)—Afghanistan said yesterday that Japanese officials had warned of the risk of online fraud, particularly in the area of money laundering.

"We are aware of the risk of online fraud, and we are taking steps to combat it," an Afghan government official said.

The warning came as part of a discussion with Japanese officials on the situation in Afghanistan.

AFGHANISTAN SAYS COMBAT PAINTING FOR UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

KABUL, Nov. 25 (Reuters)—The Afghan government has launched a new program to provide painting materials to university students, in an effort to encourage creativity and artistic expression.

The program will provide materials to students at the University of Kabul and other institutions, and will be funded by the government and international organizations.

AMERICANS TO BE POSITIVE ABOUT AFGHANISTAN

KABUL, Nov. 24 (Reuters)—American citizens living in Afghanistan are being urged to be positive about the country, and to support its efforts to rebuild after years of conflict.

"We encourage all Americans to see Afghanistan as an opportunity to contribute to its development," a statement released by the American embassy said.

The statement came after a visit to Afghanistan by a group of American business leaders, who were welcomed by the Afghan government.

All students will get half commuters in the above quoted route.

MoVe With The Times

Read KABUL TIMES

Subscription Rates

Yearly, Afs. 250

Quarterly, Afs. 75

U.S. Troops

KABUL, Nov. 21—U.S. troops have begun a new mission in Afghanistan, aimed at providing security and stability in the country.

The mission is part of a larger effort to support the Afghan government in its efforts to rebuild after years of conflict.

The United States has been providing military assistance to Afghanistan since 2001, and has committed to staying in the country for an extended period of time.

No Request By U.S. Troops

KABUL, Nov. 20—The U.S. military has no plans to request additional troops in Afghanistan, a U.S. military official said yesterday.

"We have no plans to request additional troops," the official said. "We are satisfied with the current level of troops in Afghanistan."