COLOMBO TALKS OPEN TODAY
Atmosphere - Of Caution

COLOMBO, Dec. 10 (AP).—The prospects of the China conflict speared today in the air as the delegates to the 15th session of the United Nations General Assembly prepared to meet in Colombo today.

This is the first time that China, representing the People's Republic of China, has been invited to the Assembly. The Chinese government has not yet decided whether to attend.

A spokesman for several of the non-aligned states which the invitation was extended to said they were waiting to see whether China would take part.

In Colombo, most of the talk was centered about sending a peace mission to the United Nations.

Safety weather was in store for the conference which is scheduled to end in two days. A lot of the sightseeing during the intermission was to be the stroll through the Colombo Basin and the trips to the Maldives and the Ceylonese coastal islands.

TITO ARRESSES IN VOLGA

NAZARETH, Dec. 10 (AP).—President Tito of Yugoslavia said yesterday that Russian President Khrushchev could not be permitted to attend the United Nations conference in Colombo. He expressed his willingness to attend the conference if the United Nations would invite him.

Tito said Saturday night should be a special night for him. He would like to make a special trip to the United Nations if the United Nations would invite him.

The Yugoslav government said that Tito was expected to return to Yugoslavia after the conference.

Choice of Economic Industry Programming

At a glance

The introduction of development problems in Western Europe, the problem of the capital flight, the issue of the underdeveloped countries, and the issue of the Communist bloc are all part of the global economic scene.

Among these, the issue of the underdeveloped countries is one of the most pressing. Development of the underdeveloped countries has been severely hindered by the lack of capital, the lack of technology, and the lack of trained personnel. In addition, the underdeveloped countries are often faced with the problem of foreign debt, which can be a significant burden on their economies.

A new approach to development is needed, one that focuses on the creation of jobs and the improvement of living standards. This can be achieved through a combination of public and private investment, as well as through the promotion of exports and the development of indigenous industries.

The Eastern European countries have been leading the way in this regard, with many of them successfully implementing policies that have resulted in significant economic growth and development.

AFGHANISTAN'S VIEWS ON OMAN PROGRAM

The following is the first of a series of articles on the Omani Program. The Omani Program is a major part of the current strategy of the United States to promote stability and development in the Middle East.

In the United States, the Omani Program is seen as a key component of the overall strategy, and there is a strong belief that it will be a success.

AFGHANISTAN is an ally of the United States and is committed to the success of the Omani Program. This is due in part to the strong relationship between Afghanistan and Oman, which stems from their shared history and cultural heritage.

The Omani Program is seen as a way to promote stability and development in the region, and the Afghan government is committed to working closely with the Omani government and other stakeholders to ensure its success.

The Omani Program is also seen as a way to strengthen the relationship between Afghanistan and Oman, which is seen as a key component of the overall strategy.

In summary, the Afghan government is committed to the success of the Omani Program and is working closely with the Omani government and other stakeholders to ensure its success.

NEW VIEWS OF INTERSEXUALITY

The problem of what has been called intersexuality has fascinated many people in recent years. It has been described as a condition that occurs when a person is born with both male and female reproductive organs. However, the term "intersexuality" has been criticized as being too broad and not accurately capturing the complexity of the issue.

A more recent term, "gender diversity," has been used to describe the range of biological and social identities that people can have. This term is seen as being more inclusive and accurate in capturing the complexity of the issue.

The term "gender diversity" has been embraced by many individuals and organizations, and it is likely to become more widely used in the future.
Mariner II Sound
To Be Heard At
Press Conference
WASHINGTON, Dec. 11, (AP) - The U.S. Mariner II spacecraft passed over Mars' surface yesterday, it was announced last night by Arthur Hummel, Associate Administrator of NASA. The spacecraft, launched Aug. 23, encountered the red planet from Earth and transmitted 400,000 bits of data to Earth last night. According to Mr. Hummel, the data actually hit Venus, the first time a spacecraft has sent data so far away from Earth. The spacecraft is expected to return to Earth on March 29. The data will be analyzed to determine whether the planet has magnetic field.

KABUL, Dec. 11. - Government leaders yesterday called for a new foreign policy, saying that it was the time to rethink the country's foreign relations. The government leaders said that the foreign policy should be based on the principles of non-alignment, neutrality, and non-interference in the internal affairs of other countries. They also called for closer cooperation with other countries in the region.
