No S. Rhodesian Move
To Break up Federation
Gibbs Opens New Session Of Parliament

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Governor, Sir Edmund Gibbs, declared yesterday that the Government would not make any moves to break up the Federation of Southern Rhodesia.

The statement came in response to a request by the Federal Premier, Dr. J. S. J. Sithole, that the Government take steps to prevent the Federal Government from moving against the Federation.

Sithole claimed that the move was necessary to prevent the splitting of the Federation, and that the Government should take steps to prevent this from happening.

Gibbs replied that the move was not within the power of the Government, and that it would not make any moves to break up the Federation.

Sithole then indicated that he would take the matter up with the Federal Government, and that he would make sure that the move was not made.

Memorandum

To

Geneva Meeting

Sir Edmund Gibbs

February 12, 1963

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE GENEVA COMMISSION

I have the honor to submit the following memorandum:

1. The Federation of Southern Rhodesia has been faced with a serious crisis, which has arisen from the internal situation in the Federation. The Federation has been confronted with a number of problems, which have arisen from the internal situation, and which have threatened the stability of the Federation.

2. The Federal Government has been unable to solve these problems, and the Federation has been forced to take action to solve them. The Federation has, therefore, been forced to take action to prevent the crisis from becoming worse.

3. The Federal Government has been unable to prevent the problems from becoming worse, and the Federation has been forced to take action to prevent the crisis from becoming worse.

4. The Federation has, therefore, been forced to take action to solve the problems, and to prevent the crisis from becoming worse.

5. The Federation has, therefore, been forced to take action to solve the problems, and to prevent the crisis from becoming worse.
Problems and Characteristics of Internal Development of Afghanistan's Economy

The development of Afghanistan's economy is faced with various challenges and opportunities. The country's geographical location, political stability, and economic policies play a crucial role in determining the growth of the economy. The government's efforts to diversify the economy and to attract foreign investment are essential for sustainable development.

Central Problem

The development of Afghanistan's economy requires a comprehensive approach. The government must address the fundamental issues such as poverty, lack of infrastructure, and political stability. The provision of basic services like education, health, and water is crucial for the development of the economy.

Prospects

The opportunities for Afghanistan's economy include access to the Central Asian market, development of natural resources, and improved trade relations with neighboring countries. The government must leverage these opportunities to promote economic growth and development.

Problems

The development of Afghanistan's economy is hindered by various problems such as corruption, lack of infrastructure, and political instability. The government must address these issues to create a conducive environment for economic growth.

S. RHODESIAN PROBLEM

The Rhodesian government has announced plans to introduce a new currency to address the country's economic problems. The move is expected to stabilize the economy and bring about economic growth.

The government's decision to introduce a new currency is a positive step towards stabilizing the economy. The new currency is expected to replace the Zimbabwe dollar, which has been declining in value due to hyperinflation.

The introduction of a new currency is a complex process and requires careful planning. The government must ensure that the new currency is accepted by the public and that it is used effectively to stabilize the economy.

Air Services

The new currency is expected to hit the streets in the coming weeks. The government has already started preparing for the transition to the new currency.

The introduction of a new currency is an important step towards stabilizing the economy. The government must ensure that the new currency is accepted by the public and that it is used effectively to stabilize the economy.

Problems of Development

The development of Afghanistan's economy is hindered by various problems such as political instability, lack of infrastructure, and corruption. The government must address these issues to create a conducive environment for economic growth.
