NORTH VIETNAM HAS NO TROOPS IN LAOS

Hanoi Rejects

TOLEDO, June 7 (AP)—North Vietnam has rejected the request of U.S. President Johnson to withdraw its forces from Laos, a move which would comply with the Paris peace accords. The rejection was made by North Vietnam's Ambassador to the U.S. in a letter to the President. The letter stated that the North Vietnamese forces were essential for the defense of their country and that their presence was necessary to maintain peace in Laos. The letter also stated that the withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces would violate the terms of the Paris peace accords.

Automation Magic Formula in Western World

Automation is the magic formula for the Western World.

It is being applied to run the biggest, most complicated machines, from jet engines to the world's most advanced computers. Automation has been developed for industrial products and services, and its impact is being felt in every field of production after the

But now a new formula is to be introduced - the automation of the human element. Automation means not just the use of machines to do men's jobs, but also the use of artificial intelligence to analyze data and make decisions. This could be a revolution in the way we live and work.

The automation of the human element could have profound implications for society. It could lead to greater efficiency in many industries, but it could also lead to job losses and changes in the way people live. The key to success will be how well we manage the transition.

With the new automation, the computer can perform complex calculations and analysis that were previously only possible with human intuition. This will allow companies to make better decisions, and it will allow individuals to do more work with less effort.

The automation of the human element is a complex and challenging task, but it has great potential for improving our lives. With careful planning and execution, we can make the most of this new technology and create a better future for everyone.
The Man To Replace Pope John Will Keep Up His Ideals

CARDINALS COMMENTS VATICAN CITY (AP) - Cardinals around the world are predicting that Cardinal Yves-Joseph accessorized for Pope John Paul II will continue his apostolic work. Some also believe that he will adopt a more conciliatory approach to the Church's traditional teachings on matters such as abortion and same-sex marriage.

Their comments come as many in the Catholic Church are looking to the new pope to continue the legacy of his predecessor, who was known for his strong leadership and outreach to the poor and marginalized.

Herocardinal, the Vatican's chief spokesman, said that the new pope should be an example for all Catholics, especially those who are living in poverty or facing discrimination. "We are confident that he will continue to be a voice for those who are voiceless," he said.

The new pope's choice of Yves-Joseph accessorized for Cardinal is seen as a nod to his experiences as a cardinal in his native country of France, where he served as the president of the Conference of Catholic Bishops.

In a statement, the Vatican said that the new pope would be named "Yves-Joseph" after the saint of the same name, who was known for his dedication to the poor.

Meanwhile, the Catholic Church is expected to release a new set of guidelines for the handling of sexual abuse allegations against priests, which will likely include stricter measures to prevent such incidents from occurring in the future.

The guidelines are expected to be released in the coming weeks, and are likely to be met with significant backlash from some members of the Church who argue that they are too lenient.

The new pope's appointment is expected to be announced in early 2023, following a meeting of cardinals from around the world to elect the successor to Pope John Paul II.

In the meantime, the Vatican said that it would continue to work with other religious leaders to promote peace and understanding around the world.

The new pope's choice is likely to be met with mixed reactions, with some members of the Church expressing excitement for the new leader, while others express concern over his potential for divisiveness.

The Vatican said that it would continue to work with the new pope to ensure that his papacy is marked by unity and compassion for all people.
