The First Secretary of the Australian Embassy in Moscow, Mr. Morrison, has been declared persona non grata because of espionage activities, the Soviet News Agency Tass said on Monday. Quoting a Soviet Foreign Ministry announcement, Tass said Mr. Morrison had not only been collecting intelligence but had also been selling clothing for speculation, and had greatly violated the standards of diplomatic conduct.

Mr. Morrison was called to the Australian Embassy in Moscow on Monday, the announcement said, in connexion with the moves taken by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the USSR to protest to the Australian Embassy against the unlawful activities of Mr. Morrison, who had grossly violated the standards of diplomatic conduct and declared him persona non grata. The Ministry expects that the Embassy will take strict measures to prevent such improper activities by its officials in the future.
