COLLEGE OF SCIENCE SHOULD TRAIN PRACTICAL MEN

AT A GLANCE

At the College of Science, Tashkent, a fact is quickly changing and a highly advanced world is taking shape. New developments in science and technology are causing a rapid shift in the world's social and economic structure. The College to concentrate on high-level research and training in these subjects and to provide an education that will be relevant to the changing needs of the nation.

By HRAYSK

One of the letters to the editor, following the recent move of the College of Science to Tashkent, draws attention to the importance of practical training in the education of the nation's students. It states that the College has the responsibility to provide students with the knowledge and skills necessary to meet the challenges of the modern world. The College, it is suggested, should focus on practical training and not just theoretical knowledge.

Professor Ahmet Tahir of the College of Science in Tashkent has stated that the College is planning to increase its practical training programs. He mentioned that the College is looking at new methods of teaching and learning that will better prepare students for the demands of the modern world.

The College of Science in Tashkent is planning to expand its practical training programs to include more real-world projects and case studies. This will allow students to gain practical experience and develop the skills they need to succeed in the modern world.
