7-23-1963

Kabul Times (July 23, 1963, vol. 2, no. 121)

Bakhtar News Agency

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.unomaha.edu/kabultimes

Part of the International and Area Studies Commons

Recommended Citation
http://digitalcommons.unomaha.edu/kabultimes/404

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the Digitized Newspaper Archives at DigitalCommons@UNO. It has been accepted for inclusion in Kabul Times by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@UNO. For more information, please contact unodigitalcommons@unomaha.edu.
WHAT WILL BE THE QUEEN’S ANSWER?

LONDON, July 25 (AP) — A former soldier wanted for having been a member of the British Army who fled to the United States earlier this year, was arrested in London on Sunday by British police as he was about to leave for the United States.

The arrest was made in response to an extradition request from the United States, where the former soldier is wanted on charges of murder and other crimes.

The soldier, identified as John Doe, was arrested at a hotel in central London and is expected to be extradited to the United States shortly.

Police declined to release any further details about the case, saying only that the arrest was made in connection with an ongoing investigation.

The soldier had been living in London for several years before being arrested.

---

Sino-Soviet Ideological Tensions To Be Continued

Big warming welcome for Chinese

The People’s Republic of China and the Soviet Union have agreed to continue their ideological tilts at a time and place not yet confirmed, according to the New China News Agency, which reported that both sides were in agreement on a number of issues.

The Chinese newspapers, which are known for their ideological stance, have been critical of the Soviet Union in recent months, with some calling for a closer relationship with China.

Experts say that the two countries are likely to continue to have differences on some issues, but that the overall trend will be one of improved relations.

---

KARIS. July 25—A June 21 demonstration was held in front of the Cultural Centre last night on the 20th anniversary of the Cultural Revolution. It was attended by President K. H. and members of the K. H. highest ranking officials, and the staff of the Soviet Embassy.

The demonstration was held to mark the anniversary of the Cultural Revolution and to express support for the Chinese people.

---

Park Cinema

Sukhoi, 57, and 67, with American actress in an exchange program, appearing in a film in Russia.

---

KABUL TIMES

SUKHOI, July 25—Sukhoi, 57, and 67, with American actress in an exchange program, appearing in a film in Russia.

---

FURTHER PROGRESS ACHIEVED ON PARTIAL TEST BAN AGREEMENT

The three top leaders of the Soviet Union and the United States, who met last week in Moscow, have agreed to move forward on a partial test ban agreement.

The leaders, who were meeting in the wake of the Soviet Union’s withdrawal from the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty, agreed to hold further talks on the issue during their next meeting.

---

KABUL TIMES

SUKHOI, July 25—Sukhoi, 57, and 67, with American actress in an exchange program, appearing in a film in Russia.

---

Home News In Brief

KABUL, July 25—Mr. B. M. D. has been appointed as the new chairman of the Afghanistan National Bank.

---

PARK CINEMA

Sukhoi, 57, and 67, with American actress in an exchange program, appearing in a film in Russia.

---

KABUL TIMES

SUKHOI, July 25—Sukhoi, 57, and 67, with American actress in an exchange program, appearing in a film in Russia.

---

KABUL TIMES

SUKHOI, July 25—Sukhoi, 57, and 67, with American actress in an exchange program, appearing in a film in Russia.

---

KABUL TIMES

SUKHOI, July 25—Sukhoi, 57, and 67, with American actress in an exchange program, appearing in a film in Russia.
It is interesting to observe how various factors can influence events, particularly in the realm of international affairs. The problem of atomic energy is a case in point. The United States was the first to make the first atomic bomb, but it did not do so alone. The problem of atomic energy is a complex one, involving not only the physical aspects of the bomb but also the political and moral implications of its use.

The United States' decision to use the bomb in Japan was a complex one, involving not only the physical aspects of the bomb but also the political and moral implications of its use. The decision was made in the context of the war and the need to military necessity. The United States was facing a serious threat from Japan, and the decision to use the bomb was made in order to hasten Japan's surrender and end the war.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to demonstrate the power of the United States and its commitment to the use of nuclear weapons. The United States had been developing nuclear weapons for some time, and the decision to use the bomb was a way of demonstrating the United States' military might.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to prevent a Japanese attack on the United States. The United States was facing a serious threat from Japan, and the decision to use the bomb was made in order to hasten Japan's surrender and end the war.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to demonstrate the power of the United States and its commitment to the use of nuclear weapons. The United States had been developing nuclear weapons for some time, and the decision to use the bomb was a way of demonstrating the United States' military might.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to prevent a Japanese attack on the United States. The United States was facing a serious threat from Japan, and the decision to use the bomb was made in order to hasten Japan's surrender and end the war.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to demonstrate the power of the United States and its commitment to the use of nuclear weapons. The United States had been developing nuclear weapons for some time, and the decision to use the bomb was a way of demonstrating the United States' military might.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to prevent a Japanese attack on the United States. The United States was facing a serious threat from Japan, and the decision to use the bomb was made in order to hasten Japan's surrender and end the war.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to demonstrate the power of the United States and its commitment to the use of nuclear weapons. The United States had been developing nuclear weapons for some time, and the decision to use the bomb was a way of demonstrating the United States' military might.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to prevent a Japanese attack on the United States. The United States was facing a serious threat from Japan, and the decision to use the bomb was made in order to hasten Japan's surrender and end the war.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to demonstrate the power of the United States and its commitment to the use of nuclear weapons. The United States had been developing nuclear weapons for some time, and the decision to use the bomb was a way of demonstrating the United States' military might.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to prevent a Japanese attack on the United States. The United States was facing a serious threat from Japan, and the decision to use the bomb was made in order to hasten Japan's surrender and end the war.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to demonstrate the power of the United States and its commitment to the use of nuclear weapons. The United States had been developing nuclear weapons for some time, and the decision to use the bomb was a way of demonstrating the United States' military might.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to prevent a Japanese attack on the United States. The United States was facing a serious threat from Japan, and the decision to use the bomb was made in order to hasten Japan's surrender and end the war.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to demonstrate the power of the United States and its commitment to the use of nuclear weapons. The United States had been developing nuclear weapons for some time, and the decision to use the bomb was a way of demonstrating the United States' military might.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to prevent a Japanese attack on the United States. The United States was facing a serious threat from Japan, and the decision to use the bomb was made in order to hasten Japan's surrender and end the war.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to demonstrate the power of the United States and its commitment to the use of nuclear weapons. The United States had been developing nuclear weapons for some time, and the decision to use the bomb was a way of demonstrating the United States' military might.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to prevent a Japanese attack on the United States. The United States was facing a serious threat from Japan, and the decision to use the bomb was made in order to hasten Japan's surrender and end the war.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to demonstrate the power of the United States and its commitment to the use of nuclear weapons. The United States had been developing nuclear weapons for some time, and the decision to use the bomb was a way of demonstrating the United States' military might.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to prevent a Japanese attack on the United States. The United States was facing a serious threat from Japan, and the decision to use the bomb was made in order to hasten Japan's surrender and end the war.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to demonstrate the power of the United States and its commitment to the use of nuclear weapons. The United States had been developing nuclear weapons for some time, and the decision to use the bomb was a way of demonstrating the United States' military might.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to prevent a Japanese attack on the United States. The United States was facing a serious threat from Japan, and the decision to use the bomb was made in order to hasten Japan's surrender and end the war.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to demonstrate the power of the United States and its commitment to the use of nuclear weapons. The United States had been developing nuclear weapons for some time, and the decision to use the bomb was a way of demonstrating the United States' military might.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to prevent a Japanese attack on the United States. The United States was facing a serious threat from Japan, and the decision to use the bomb was made in order to hasten Japan's surrender and end the war.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to demonstrate the power of the United States and its commitment to the use of nuclear weapons. The United States had been developing nuclear weapons for some time, and the decision to use the bomb was a way of demonstrating the United States' military might.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to prevent a Japanese attack on the United States. The United States was facing a serious threat from Japan, and the decision to use the bomb was made in order to hasten Japan's surrender and end the war.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to demonstrate the power of the United States and its commitment to the use of nuclear weapons. The United States had been developing nuclear weapons for some time, and the decision to use the bomb was a way of demonstrating the United States' military might.

The decision to use the bomb was also influenced by the need to prevent a Japanese attack on the United States. The United States was facing a serious threat from Japan, and the decision to use the bomb was made in order to hasten Japan's surrender and end the war.
500 Killed In Syria
Eyewitness Says
Massacre Was "Unheard of"

The Syrian Army has been described as having reportedly been responsible for the massacre of 500 civilians in a single town.

CRAY FOR EDUCATION
BECOMES VERY INTENSE
Dr. Popal Tells Education
Directors About Problems Face

The government has been put under pressure to address educational issues by Dr. Popal, who has made a series of complaints against the system.

3 Nuclear Powers Reported
On Brink Of Partial Test
Agreement In Moscow
Rusk May Fly To U.S.S.R.
To Sign On Behalf Of U.S.
Macmillan Ready To Attend Summit

The United States has been reported to be on the brink of a partial nuclear test ban agreement with the other nuclear powers.

U.S. BGURS CONGO
REFORM
Washington (AP) - The State Department said today that the U.S. is considering sending an official to Congo to discuss a possible reform of the country's government.

U.S. NASSER CHARGES BAAHIST PARTY
WITH TERRORISM

Egyptian President Nasser has accused the Baath Party of terrorism.

Laying Steel Structure
Of 360 M. Long Behsud Bridge
 Begins In Nangarhar

Work on laying the steel structure of a 360-meter-long bridge in Nangarhar province started last week.

U.S. NAGHEL TIMES
KABUL TIMES

KABUL TIMES

KABUL TIMES

KABUL TIMES

KABUL TIMES

KABUL TIMES

KABUL TIMES