South Africa Denounced As An "Outlaw Nation" By Ghana In Security Council

A special story was prepared on page 3 of the China News Agency's wire service report on Thursday, August 3.

China News Agency reported that the Chinese government has reversed its position on the issue of South Africa's "outlaw" status.

Chinese officials said that the reversal was due to the "peaceful" approach taken by the South African government.

The Chinese government had previously expressed concern over South Africa's "outlaw" status, but the latest development suggests a more positive stance.

According to the report, China's Foreign Ministry has said that it will "continue to support the South African government's efforts to promote lasting peace and stability in the region."
