THE PRIME MINISTER'S PRESS CONFERENCE AND THE HOUSING PROBLEM

Prime Minister Dr. Mohammad Daud's press conference on housing was attended by hundreds of journalists and others. A Mrs. Floronald, a 50-year-old woman, asked him to submit a list of officials involved in the construction of the government offices but who have not received their due allowances. The Prime Minister assured her that the list would be submitted to the Minister of Works and Housing. She also expressed an opinion that the government should build low-cost rental housing for the people. The Prime Minister thanked her for her concern and assured her that the government was working on it.

AN ASSESSMENT OF POSSIBLE EFFECTS OF MOSCOW TEST BAN ACCORD ON IMPROVING EAST-WEST RELATIONS

The United States and Soviet Union have agreed to sign a test ban accord that will significantly reduce the number of nuclear tests. This development is likely to have a positive impact on improving East-West relations. The United States and Soviet Union have significant interests in the region, and the agreement is likely to strengthen the broader trend of cooperation between the two countries.

The improvements in U.S.-Soviet relations are likely to be reflected in other areas as well. The United States and Soviet Union are both major players in the international community, and the agreement is likely to have a positive impact on other issues, such as trade and security.

One of the key issues that the United States and Soviet Union will need to address is the impact of the test ban accord on their nuclear arsenals. The agreement is likely to reduce the number of nuclear tests, which could lead to a reduction in the size of their arsenals.

The United States and Soviet Union will also need to address the issue of arms control. The agreement is likely to be followed by other agreements on arms control, which could lead to a reduction in the number of nuclear weapons.

While the agreement is likely to have a positive impact on East-West relations, there are still many challenges that need to be addressed. The United States and Soviet Union will need to work together to ensure that the agreement is implemented effectively. They will also need to address the issue of nuclear proliferation, which could lead to a reduction in the number of nuclear weapons.

The improvement in U.S.-Soviet relations is likely to have a positive impact on other areas as well. The United States and Soviet Union are both major players in the international community, and the agreement is likely to strengthen the broader trend of cooperation between the two countries.
