Mediation In Algerian Leaders’ Dispute

Ben Bella Accepts Arab League Secretary’s Offer

ALGIERS, July 8.—The Algerian Information Minister, Mr. Mohammed Boudia, yesterday said that the Algerian Government was ready to accept mediation by Mr. Abdul Kalam, Secretary-General of the Arab League, to end the dispute between the Algerian leaders.

Mr. Boudia made the statement before leaving Algiers for Rabat where he and another Minister are to hold talks with Mr. Ben Bella, the deposed Prime Minister.

Mr. Ben Bella has stated that he cannot accept the mediation offer.

Bouter Orders Secret Tails Aiding Rebels

Mr. Ben Bella, who has been having talks in Rabat with President Mohammed Zaid, President of the United Arab Republic, and the third Minister from Algiers, hopes to meet Mr. Ben Bella in Rabat, together with the churches and the People’s Moorish, Mr. Mohamed Raimi.

No Crisis

M. Saad Dahlah, Algerian Pro-Presidential Government Minister, said in a broadcast that he expects that there will be no crisis and that there will be a “reconciliation.”

Speaking in the Arabic service of Algiers Radio, he said: “We shall make no understanding with General de Gaulle and the French Government. We do not know if they can agree among themselves.”

He added: “In the last year, the people will decide.

M. Dahlah said that elections for a National Assembly would be held at the beginning of August, and said that the date would be announced soon.

M. Dahlah described the National Liberation Army, which is at the center of the political dispute, as the Army of the Free Men of Algeria and as the Motherland of all Algeria.

Training Teachers To Be Community Leaders

The present curriculum of the Primary Teachers' Training School (the Normal School as it is often called) includes Islamic, Persian, English, mathematics, geography, history, psychology, pedagogy, teaching, woodwork, agriculture, painting, writing, and general physical training.

The second semester is devoted to practical teaching, public general knowledge, and a field trip for students to experience their teaching environment in their future classrooms.

The third year of training is divided into two semesters: the first semester is spent on practical teaching, while the second semester is devoted to pedagogical studies.

Community Leaders

Afghanistan is an agricultural country, and the majority of the people live in rural areas. The education system has been developed under the supervision of the Afghan Ministry of Education, providing general education and practical skills.

The Primary Teachers' Training School includes workshops and training for new teachers, with a focus on creating a cooperative and learning environment.

The circulation of the magazine has increased significantly, with a steady growth of readers.

The magazine carries the picture of the First Prime Minister, the late Mohammad Daoud, and carries a couplet:

"The first European to discover Burundi and Rwanda were the Jesuits; the second was the God of the Tutsi, the African God of the Tutsi and the Rwandese God of the Tutsi."

The magazine also carries the picture of the famous Hollywood actress Elizabeth Taylor, who is associated with a cause.

The magazine carries a picture of a woman who is associated with a charity organization, and a picture of a man who is associated with a sports event.

Telephone Star
To Be Sent
Up Tomorrow

The United States plans to orbit its first "Telstar" communication satellite in a revolutionary step to link America with Europe with direct radio and television broadcasts through a "switchboard" system of communications.

Success of the 37 th. experimental model will give its users the chance to view the first live trans-Atlantic television satellite signal relay within a week.

"Telstar" will officially open the era of global communications with "same" earth satellites. The programme will begin as part of the lunar orbit, but may be less in the atmosphere of the Earth's orbit. The satellite will have a very fast orbit, about 7,000 miles, that will mean it will circle the globe in 100 minutes.

The first Telstar will carry an elaborate device which will be able to receive signals from earth, amplify them and relay them back again. The satellites will be used as relay stations between the Earth and the Moon.

But the Belgian telephone Laboratories built the Telstar complex, which consists of a satellite and a satellite relay station. The telephone Laboratory will put the satellite into orbit and monitor its performance.
